U.S. CALLS POLICE TO DRY QUIZ

MORGAN'S HAND IS SEEN BEHIND U.S. NAVAL DEAL

Parity Surrender Is Still Mystery.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 16. — In the surrender of the American naval reduction delegation to Great Britain, involving the renunciation of the power of our navy to protect American commerce on the high seas, the Hoover administration has raised a political issue which likely will not die down for decades, if not for generations to come.

So long as our ocean borne trade, already rivaling Great Britain's, and our reviving merchant marine continues to grow, increasing importance will be attached to the ability of the United States to protect its foreign trade in time of war. Such wartime interference would not only destroy our prosperity, which is coming to be measured by our volume of exports more and more, but would bring unemployment and want to millions of Americans.

Vital to American Life.

The apparent destiny of America to succeed Great Britain as the foremost world trader and the increasing dependence of America on foreign sources of supply for necessities of life bring the dawning realization to the American people that the power to protect their interests on the sea lanes of commerce is as vital to their well being as it ever has been to Great Britain.

With such a future before us it needs only takes a seventh son of a seventh son to foretell the repercussions from the Hoover administration's surrender at the London naval conference.

It was scarcely yesterday that our navy general board, the highest American authority on sea defense, decreed eight inch gun cruisers as the minimum armament, in view of our lack of outlying naval bases, that would offset as "sufficient strength to support United States policies and commerce and guard its continental and overseas possessions."

U. S. Surrender Mystifies.

With conditions unchanged save by the signing of the Kellogg anti-war pact—to which no power except the United States is trusting for protection—the American delegation in Mr. Stimson's proposals has come down to 10 big cruisers. This is the precise number to which Great Britain has long sought to limit us, which, on British official calculation of relative values of big and little cruisers, leaves us short of a parity and which the Hoover administration at the time it was holding out for 21 big cruisers admitted would leave us short of a parity with the mistress of the seas.

The atmosphere of the five power conference already is charged with all sorts of speculation on the reasons for the American surrender. It is still a mystery to the British statesmen, who were prepared to yield eventually to 21 cruisers in exchange for American concessions on battleships. They were amazed when Mr. Stimson threw away his pat poker hand before the game had fairly begun.

To the Americans it is less of a mystery, though they are by no means at one in their theories as to the reasons which animated President Hoover in giving up as unsound the American position so lately held in the cruiser controversy and embracing the British theory of reliance on small cruisers, which, is tantamount to an admission that it was the Americans who were wrong and the British right all along.

Recalls Curtis' Remarks.

Those who, like Vice President Charles Curtis in 1928, accused President Hoover of being pro-British on the basis of his long residence under the British flag, are reading in the Hoover proposals substantiation of their suspicions. It will be recalled that Vice President Curtis, on the eve of his nomination in Kansas City, said that Hoover, if elected, would take the post of ambassador for England.

Others, who are prone to perceive the occult forces underlying political events, think they perceive behind the scenes the hand of Morgan moving in the mysterious way his wonders to perform. They envisage the Morgan group of international bankers as a financial and political dictatorship, which rules America as a European satrapy.

With particular suspicion do they view Morgan, banker of Great Britain during the war, who has his London office in Grosvenor square and his English country seat, Wallhall at Watford. What is more natural, they ask, than the Morgan group, which

Germans Fight Proposed Ban on "Schnapps"

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—Berlin today set up a hoarse howl of protest on learning of the "incredible action" of the reichstag committee on public economy inserting a paragraph into the pending tavern bill shoving back the closing time of inns and bars from 3 a. m. to 1 a. m.

The howl rose to a wild screech in the Berlin press as the undaunted reichstag committee inserted a new paragraph, aimed to stop the sale of "schnapps," or brandy, Germany's favorite hard liquor, on all general pay days, holidays, and election days, not to exceed two days a week. The enraged press interprets that as meaning a booze lid every Saturday and Sunday.

Communists and Socialists Dry.

The only exception of wrathful protest is found in radical papers of the communists and Socialists, as they are notoriously dry. Their combined near majority in the reichstag committee, aided by two renegade Conservatives, allowed them to put an astonishing series of four dry paragraphs in the tavern bill.

The consternation over the tavern bill is taking expression tonight in many Berlin papers by reprints of familiar figures of American still raids and prohibition shootings with troubled captions asking, "Is the Fatherland Heading for This?"

Police Chief Zoergiebel tonight declared himself both personally and officially opposed to the proposed dry measure.

Fears Speak-Easie Menace.

"Personally I consider any and every closing hour unnecessary and unwarranted meddling with the citizen's private affairs," he said. "In the capacity of police official I am also strongly opposed to it. The new closing hour will merely greatly increase the number of Berlin speak-easies, where the atmosphere is more immoral and more crime producing than in above board bars."

Yielding a point to his opposition he issued an order tonight extending the Berlin closing time one hour, effective during the carnival season, which has just begun.

Berlin papers insist wrathfully that "Berlin is no village and cannot be treated that way by stodgy reichstag members."

Will Ruin Night Life.

If the measure is passed, they say, it will ruin Berlin's bright night life, generally admitted as Europe's closest approach to Broadway's scintillating splendor.

The press points out the fact that even the with present 3 a. m. law there are speak-easies, whose flourishing untaxed, unregulated business begins the moment the law closes the regular places.

American visitors will be inconvenienced if the 1 a. m. Saturday and Sunday booze lid becomes a law. Accustomed to seeking out bootleg joints back home, they are already firmly established as the best customers of the Berlin speak-easies. Even now, in the winter off season, scores of Americans are "members" of the notorious Kellner klub, or the "Walter's club."

They will tell you that qualifying for membership in the Kellner klub is a simple matter. Merely write down the name of any Berlin café on the application card that you are a waiter at that restaurant. Then pay one mark and, presto, you are a "waiter" and entitled to enter the klub and buy drinks.

$2,000,000 GRAIN FIRM FAILURE STIRS CANADA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 16.—The Winnipeg grain exchange tonight officially announced the suspension of the Electric Elevator company from membership on the exchange. The directors of the company are endeavoring to reorganize the company to protect shareholders.

The company's losses are estimated at $2,000,000 and the Bank of Montreal has seized all the wheat in the company's terminal elevator at Fort William to protect its cash advances to the company.

The government of Canada has closed the elevator to protect farmers who own the grain in it. The company had borrowed money on this wheat. A number of small grain firms in Winnipeg who have sold out or failed recently were not involved seriously with the Electric Elevator company.

Open Hospital Today for Sick Millionaires

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Built and owned by millionaires who have helped build hospitals for the rest of the world, the new $4,250,000 Doctors' hospital, overlooking the East river and Hell Gate bridge, will open tomorrow.

It has a French chef, the orange juice will be served in delicately frosted crystal glasses surrounded by cracked ice, and there's not a white iron bed in the place.

Thomas Cochran, a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., is president of the board of directors. Instead of a superintendent the hospital has a resident manager, A. J. Gertenbach, with 25 years' experience in some of New York's leading hotels.

Gay Window Curtains.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin did the interior decorating. There are gay chintz curtains at the windows in this hospital, bed spreads quilted in colors, and thick, soft blankets or rose, pale blue and jade green.

The beds are metal, in accordance with hospital regulations, but they are in period design and are finished to look like walnut. The rest of the furniture is period, too. And in each room is a handsome writing desk. All the dishes are gold banded and smartly crested, of a grade as good as that used in the most expensive New York hotels.

Lobby Is Like a Hotel's.

As far as possible Doctors' hospital is going to be run like a high class hotel. The lobby is exactly like the lobby of any ultra-smart apartment hotel. There is a florist shop, valet, barber and hair dresser.

In equipment for surgery and for the care of patients, Doctors' hospital is nearly perfect, physicians say. And it has on its board of governors some of the most distinguished surgeons and medical men in New York.

There are no charity wards. The most desirable rooms rent for $50 a day, but a room may be had as low as $8 a day.

ROBERT VOLK, REALTY DEALER, KILLS HIMSELF

Robert Volk, 46 years old, real estate dealer, with offices at 77 West Washington street, committed suicide last night by shooting himself in the head in the basement of his home at 2212 North Neva avenue. Volk, in good health and apparently in good spirits, had been talking with members of his family in the living room of the house a few minutes before the shooting.

Hearing a shot, Mrs. Volk, their daughter, Rose, and a brother-in-law, George Franklin, ran to the basement and found Volk lying on the floor with the revolver beside him. They could give no reason for his act.

Mr. Volk had extensive real estate holdings on the south side and was reputed to be wealthy. He had started a large home building program on Yale avenue near 31st street in October.

U. S. JOINS CITY IN WAR TO DRIVE OUT GUN TOTERS

Hunt Outlaw Aliens at Police Showup.

The federal government last night took a hand in the Chicago police campaign to drive out gunmen when immigration officials announced that they would take steps to deport aliens who are caught in the police roundup of criminals.

Two immigration officers attended last night's showup at police headquarters, when 230 men and two women were paraded across the platform. They were searching among the suspects for aliens who have entered the United States illegally or who have committed crimes which forfeit their right to remain in this country.

Federal officials refused to disclose the results of their search, but Capt. P. H. Stratton of the immigration bureau said that the government would continue a surveillance of criminals rounded up and will act against all criminal aliens.

Coöperate with Police.

"We will coöperate with the police in every way in their efforts to harass the hoodlums," Capt. Stratton said. "Wherever we find an alien has been guilty of crime we will act at once to deport him. In the past these police roundups have been of material aid to the government in ferreting out criminal aliens and I believe that many arrested in the present campaign will be sent back to their own countries."

Continuing their raids after the showup, the police rounded up 320 more hoodlums between 4 p. m. yesterday and midnight, including three gun toters. The total seized since Saturday evening totaled more than 1,000. As a result of the raids of the last ten days, Commissioner Russell said that approximately 500 crimes have been cleaned up and about 200 men have been started on their way to prison.

Boys Caught with Pistol.

Among the three gunmen seized in last night's raids was one 14 year old boy, Myles Clark, 1260 MacAlester place, who was arrested with three youthful companions as they were riding around the west side in an automobile rented with the proceeds of a burglary earlier in the evening. Clark was carrying a revolver belonging to the father of Frank Sigilio, 16 years old, 1208 Mac'Alester place, one of his three companions.

With them were John Malone, 17 years old, 1254 MacAlester place, and Carmen Lipuma, 14 years old, 811 South Laflin street. The four boys confessed that they had robbed the home of Pasquale Sigilio at Polk and Miller streets and had stolen $10. They rented the car, they said, to commit more robberies, but had not yet carried out their plans when they were seized by the Fillmore police.

Russell Watches Showup.

Several bands of youthful robbers were in the showup. A dozen more were caught with revolvers. Commissioner Russell watched closely as group after group appeared on the platform. Here were four youths who admitted robbing stores and delivery wagon drivers. Russell was impatient when he learned that all of the drivers who were robbed were not present to view the robbers.

Two Negroes with guns, James Colton and Sam Reynolds, told of being sentenced to but one year's imprisonment in 1927 and they said they committed 48 robberies. A dozen others said they were given probation or suspended sentences on other occasions.

A burglar said he was 65 years old and first served in a penitentiary 40 years ago, and in a half dozen prisons since. He had seven or eight names.

Three Veteran Pickpockets.

Three pickpockets, the eldest 72 years old, were in the line. The veteran, Bud Copeland, said he had been arrested a hundred times or more. His companions were William and Dennis O'Keefe, 58 and 52 respectively, who have a brother, John, now in prison.

A powerfully built Negro, Gus Davis, said he was paroled from Joliet and sent to Chicago, although he had been sent to prison from Danville. This angered Russell—the thought that parole officers sent an ex-convict to Chicago.

Several of the suspects smirked when Lieut. John L. Sullivan, reading off their records, mentioned murder.

"You beat that one, didn't you?" Sullivan would comment. "Were the witnesses taken for a ride? Some po-

Hunt Banker's "Safety Fund" of $100,000

A cache of $100,000, believed to have been created by Elmer P. Langguth, deposed president of the People's State bank of Maywood, from bank funds he is accused of embezzling, was hunted by investigators yesterday. Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office, said he was convinced that Langguth saved at least that amount for a reserve fund in case he was discovered.

Safety deposit vaults and the two apartments rented by Langguth in Oak Park and Austin, presumably for the purpose of carrying on an affair with Miss Laverne Lindgren, cashier of the bank, and also accused of embezzlement, will be searched by the investigators.

Puts Shortage at $300,000.

The shortage in bank funds will probably reach $300,000, Roche pointed out. Langguth could not have spent or given away that sum in two years, even allowing for the blackmail he was supposed to have paid, the investigator said.

The former bank president dropped $25,000 in the Black and White Cab company, is said to have paid $35,000 for the Riverside home of Miss Lindgren, lost money in a newspaper enterprise, and turned over many thousands to replace funds he took while tax collector, according to the investigator.

"However," Roche declared, "despite a liberal estimate of Langguth's high living expenses, his generous contributions to Miss Lindgren, his payments to blackmailers who threatened to expose his affair with the cashier, only $200,000 can be accounted for. That leaves $100,000 which Langguth probably saved for emergencies, such as this one."

Question Former Taxi Head.

Henry Franz was president of the cab company which Langguth financed and which finally went broke, and he later was given a job as watchman in the bank by the president. Franz was questioned yesterday, but said he knew nothing of his employer's appropriation of funds. Louis Lindgren, brother of the girl cashier and secretary of the cab campany, is reported to be in Texas.

The investigators were also to question Henry Collins, Langguth's father-in-law, who resigned as vice president of the bank a year ago. Another director of the bank, Mills Thorhaug, who resigned six months ago, is reported to be in the west.

Roche declared that as soon as indictments can be returned against Langguth and Miss Lindgren, they will be rearrested and compelled to furnish higher bonds. Langguth has given a $100,000 bond and Miss Lindgren a $10,000 bond. The girl will not be allowed to schedule as property for the bond the home she got from Langguth, it was stated.

Bank Holdup Is Recalled.

Delving into Langguth's past history, the investigators came upon a number of interesting incidents. In September, 1918, Langguth was assistant cashier of the Proviso State bank of Maywood. Only one customer was in the bank when four young men with pistols entered and held up Langguth. The customer disappeared and Langguth's story was the only one told to the police. He said he had tried to reach a revolver in his cage but was unsuccessful and was forced to hand over $12,000.

Shortly thereafter, according to the story told the police, Langguth resigned from the bank. He became a bond clerk for Peabody, Houghteling & Co. It was then that he bought a home in Maywood and married Beatrice Collins.

Five years ago Langguth organized the Peoples State bank. About that time also he was a successful candidate for village collector, a position which is worth $20,000 a year because of the percentage given collectors. According to Roche, Langguth used money he collected to help organize the bank and later borrowed bank funds to replace the collections.

RUSSELL, ROCHE TO TELL EVILS OF PROHIBITION

Strawn and Swanson Also May Testify.

Chicago's principal law enforcing officers are awaiting summons to Washington to appear before the judiciary committee of the house of representatives with evidence concerning the gang violence and political corruption which, wet leaders contend, have marked ten years of prohibition in Cook county. The committee, which is holding hearings on proposals to repeal the eighteenth amendment, already has sent invitations to some of the city's civic leaders.

On the list to testify before the committee at the request of Representative A. J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.] are:

William F. Russell, police commissioner of Chicago, a police captain for a decade before his appointment as head of the department and a member of the police force for 25 years.

John Stege, head of the detective bureau, who has traced many of his troubles as a law enforcer to evils flowing out of prohibition.

John A. Swanson, state's attorney and former Circuit court judge, who has recently admitted that beer and whisky flows freely in Chicago despite his best efforts.

Pat Roche, chief investigator for Mr. Swanson, former policeman and former chief of the special intelligence unit of the department of internal revenue, who as a government investigator is known to have learned much concerning graft in the prohibition department.

Ralph M. Shaw, partner in the law firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, a resident director of the Association Opposed to the Prohibition Amendment.

Silas H. Strawn, law partner of Mr. Shaw and chairman of the citizens' committee organized in an effort to solve the financial difficulties of the local governments.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, civil engineer, recently elected president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and chairman of the association's secret committee of six, organized two weeks ago to investigate the causes of crime in the city.

Morgan A. Collins, former chief of police, who, shortly after he completed four years in that office, was quoted as saying that the police department had been completely corrupted by booze interests and that he had been offered $100,000 by a liquor syndicate. Collins is due in Chicago Thursday, following a stay in California.

Roche Willing to Go.

Roche, whose testimony would, it is thought, be more weighty than that of the others, said that he was willing to go "if business will permit." He received his invitation last night.

Roche has had opportunity for observation of crime and prohibition and their relationship from three points of view during his twenty years in public service. As a policeman and detective sergeant until 1921, he gained wide knowledge of gangsters, their dealings with public officials and their murderous feuds among themselves.

Experienced in Dry Inquiries.

As chief of the internal revenue unit Roche was the principal federal detective in the Chicago area, charged with investigating every suspicion of bribery in corruption in the prohibition division of the treasury department. An example of his work in the federal service was his building up of the case against Maj. Percy B. Owen, former prohibition administrator who was tried for malfeasance in office.

Mr. Shaw and Col. Randolph have said they would accept the committee's invitation and testify. Mr. Strawn said yesterday that he had not yet received the invitation, that he would go if he were asked, but that in view of the demands made on his time by the fiscal dilemma on the local governments he hoped the committee would not ask him to go. State's Attorney Swanson said he had not made up his mind one way or another. Russell's and Stege's plans were not known last night.

View of Attorney Shaw.

"It is well known that I have for years contributed to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment," Mr. Shaw said. "My friends all know that I believe the 18th amendment to have been very unsound legislation. Farther than that I don't want to go in making statements for I don't think it would be courteous to the congressional committee if I were to discuss at length what I am likely to say to them.

Mr. Shaw, some of his close friends said, put the case mildly when he said he thought the prohibition law to be "unsound." Associates said he has often denounced the 18th amendment.

Mr. Strawn, one of the city's leaders in civic affairs, is also known to have been active in obtaining a knowledge of the workings of the prohibition law, its possible good and its evil effects. When he was president of the American Bar association, two years ago, Mr. Strawn became so interested that he had a nation-wide survey of the prohibition situation made. The conclusion reached in the survey was that prohibition has been a failure in metropolitan centers.

In his public utterances Mr. Strawn has often spoken of the prohibition law as "an unfortunate piece of legislation."

Randolph Discusses Dry Law.

Col. Randolph has recently discussed the working of prohibition in Chicago. While he denied published reports that he had referred to it as "that damnable prohibition law," Col. Randolph admitted he has strong criticism in store for prohibition in a speech he intends making.

State's Attorney Swanson, who refused to discuss his possible testimony, should he go before the committee, also is known to have unburdened himself to his friends and political advisers concerning his troubles with prohibition as public prosecutor. He was quoted as saying to some of his advisers that beer and whisky flowed freely in the city despite all his own efforts and those of other agencies and that every case of whisky, every can of alcohol and every barrel of beer distributed meant the wholesale corruption of all the forces having anything directly to do with enforcing prohibition.

From a W. C. T. U. Leader.

Mrs. Anna Marden De Yo, national secretary of the W. C. T. U., commented yesterday on the house committee's plan to investigate Chicago conditions.

"It is doubtful wisdom to tear Chicago's reputation to tatters before a congressional committee simply to further the wet side of the prohibition controversy and elect more antiprohibition congressmen," she said. "Many thinking people will believe the Chicago crime situation is due to prohibition but, actually, it is due to the sort of administration the citizens chose.

"Crime will cease when Chicago awakens to full civic conscientiousness. Anyway, there is less crime in Chicago today than there was 20 years ago."

Wets Jubilant at Progress Towards Dry Modification

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—With prohibition warfare raging on several fronts and at least two major engagements scheduled for this week, wet members of congress today saw themselves and their cause in probably the most favorable position they have held during the present session.

Despite overwhelming dry majorities in both houses, precluding the possibility of the actual passage of any wet legislation, the liquor issue has been paramount since the beginning of the session and the wets feel they have made strides in exposing the results of the 18th amendment and creating sentiment for its repeal. At the same time, they are satisfied that the Wickersham commission dry law enforcement program has slow and rough going ahead.

For two days last week at the house judiciary committee hearings on modification measures, wet witnesses held the spotlight and they will have another two days next Wednesday and Thursday with well known anti-prohibitionists from New York, Chicago, Boston, and other cities invited to testify.

Inquiry Is Feared.

But what is said to be causing more consternation among the dry leaders than the house hearings is the foreboding spectre of a sweeping investigation into prohibition enforcement scandals by a senate body, as provided in the resolution of Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], which is to be acted on by the senate judiciary committee tomorrow. While the house wet drama will be over in three weeks, at most, such an inquiry as the Wheeler resolution contemplates might last all summer, advertising alleged prohibition corruption in all parts of the country.

Authoritative reports have it that the Hoover administration is bringing extraordinary pressure to bear to prevent the senatorial investigation, such administration stalwarts as Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], the majority leader, and Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.], having taken the lead in an attempt to thwart it.

Although the senate judiciary committee is dry, backers of the Wheeler resolution see a good chance of its approval because of the peculiar alignment of members. While Chairman George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.] is dry he has never taken orders from the Anti-Saloon league and is counted as favoring revelation of the facts. Another powerful dry member, Senator W. E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], has been loud in his denunciation of enforcement failures and is for an investigation.

A review of the progress—or lack of progress—made by the Wickersham commission program since its inception in congress appears to bear out the wet contention that it is not going over so well. The commission's report was sent by the President to congress on Jan. 13, more than a month ago.

During the interval only one bill has been advanced. This was the Wilson bill to transfer the prohibition unit from the treasury to the department of justice, which passed the house a week ago. Two other bills based on the Wickersham recommendations have been introduced, but neither have left the house committees to which they were referred. While the Williamson bill was approved in the house the senate has not yet turned a wheel on any part of the program.

Bill Meets Obstacles.

One of the Wickersham measures, the Christopherson bill to provide for trial of minor liquor violation cases by United States commissioners, has met with unusual obstacles in a subcommittee of the house judiciary committee, headed by its author, Representative C. A. Christopherson [Rep., S. D.] After a hubbub over charges that the bill destroyed the right of trial by jury Christopherson a short while ago said action on it would be postponed indefinitely. Yesterday, however, he announced that he and his associates expected to report back to the full committee Tuesday. But at the same time he introduced the bill in a new form, softening the enforcement commission's plan.

QUICK THINKING OF WOMAN SAVES HUSBAND'S $400

The quick wit of Mrs. Joseph F. Pastor, 4939 Kenmore avenue, foiled three bandits early this morning and saved $400, the night's receipts of the Bryn Mawr theater, 1125 Byrn Mawr avenue, which is owned by her husband.

Pastor, his wife, their two daughters, Helen, 19 years old, and Ethel, 18, and a nephew, Ralph Slethon, 18 years old, of Wheaton, left the theater shortly after midnight. As they drove into the garage at the rear of the Pastor home the robbers leaped from a car which had followed them into the alley and presented pistols.

Mrs. Pastor dropped her purse containing the $400 into the folds of a rug in the tonneau of her husband's car and stepped out with two small paper parcels in her hand. The robbers snatched the bundles and fled, believing that they contained the theater money. What the parcels contained, Pastor told the police, was a girl's sweater and a boy's shirt.

ENDS HIS LIFE BY LEAP FROM 4TH FLOOR WINDOW

Richard Israel, 42 years old, of the Versailles hotel, 5234 Dorchester avenue, once the owner of a chain of small motion picture theaters, leaped to his death early this morning from a fourth floor window of the Michael Reese hospital, where he was a patient.

Mr. Israel entered the hospital on Saturday evening suffering from chronic laryngitis, hospital attendants said. Shortly after midnight this morning when the floor nurse made her rounds she noticed that the bed in his room was vacant and the window was raised. She looked out and saw Israel's body lying in an areaway below.

In the room Cottage Grove police found an unsigned note, which said: "I am shocked at myself as much as the rest of the world. There is a God in heaven and one cannot break his laws and be unpunished."

Friends said that Israel had been ill and they believed he had recently suffered financial reverses.

SHOT TO DEATH BY PAIR HUNTING FOR BEER FLAT

Blaine Roth, 45 years old, 2242 Wabash avenue, an ice dealer, died at the People's hospital last night of a gunshot wound inflicted by two intoxicated hoodlums who tried to break into his home on Saturday night in the belief that it was a beer flat. A few hours earlier police efficiency had brought about the capture of the alleged slayers, Barney Davitto, 37 years old, 6237 Greenwood avenue, and Franklin Shew, 31 years old, 2502 Indiana avenue.

Roth was shot in the abdomen by one of his assailants, who wrested his own gun from him in the struggle that followed their attempt to break into the home. His wife and Clarence Sebree, a roomer, summoned the police.

Lieut. John Treacy and Sergt. Joseph Healy and their detective bureau squads took up the trail of the assailants, who had fled in an automobile. The policemen searched the neighborhood until at 2301 South State street they found the beer flat which they believed the hoodlums had intended to visit. From telephone numbers obtained there they traced Davitto to his home and soon afterward arrested Shew.

30 DRYS MINUS WARRANTS NAB 24 IN BIG HOTEL

Guests Are Hauled Away in Patrol Wagons.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Raiding two private suites in the Benjamin Franklin hotel, early today, a squad of thirty policemen, without warrants of any kind, arrested thirteen men and eleven women, charged with illegal possession of intoxicants. The twenty-four persons were unceremoniously bundled into four patrol wagons and hauled to a police station. With one exception the women arrested were with their husbands.

The raiders confiscated about ten quarts of whisky and gin. Thirty empty liquor bottles and quantities of cracked ice and ginger ale also were seized.

P. A. Hammond, assistant manager of the hotel, declared all of those arrested either were members of the Philadelphia Club of Printing House Craftsmen, composed of executives, or guests at the club's nineteenth annual banquet and dance, held in the ballroom last night.

Offers Legal Assistance.

Horace L. Wiggins, the Benjamin Franklin's managing director, announced that he was prepared to provide both legal and financial aid for any of the persons arrested. He characterized the raid as "illegal and unwarranted."

Maj. Lemuel B. Schofield, director of public safety, personally ordered the investigation which resulted in the raid, after the receipt of information that there would be several "wet" parties after the dance. He declared this afternoon that a careful examination would be made of the evidence and that warrants would be issued for the arrest of two waiters and for all other persons connected with the hotel personnel who, if it can be proved, had information of what was taking place."

Waiters May Be Arrested.

Maj. Schofield added that he would consider the matter of requesting Walter Mackey to revoke the dance license now held by the Benjamin Franklin, one of the city's best known hotels. The two waiters referred to by Maj. Schofield were not arrested this morning, because they had gone off duty before the raiders arrived.

All of the twenty-four persons arrested were ordered released by Police Magistrate Edward P. Carney and their hearings were set for tomorrow.

TWO DIE IN RUM BLAST

Reading, Pa., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Two men were killed, seven others were injured, one critically and the entire city was shaken this afternoon by the explosion of a big illicit distilling plant three blocks from the business center. The first detonation, followed almost instantly by a second major blast and a number of smaller explosions, demolished several buildings, covering nearly half a block, of the old Reading Paper Mills company in which the distillery was concealed, hurled five gallon alcohol cans through the air for blocks and shattered plate glass windows.

Fire followed the blasts and it was several hours before investigators were certain of the cause. Officials declared tonight, however, that the ruins of the paper plant indicated without question that it had been used for redistilling denatured alcohol in large quantities for beverage purposes.

When firemen and police penetrated the smoking ruins, more than five hours after the explosion occurred they found the bodies of Thomas Magiaro and Henry Labe. The men were passing the plant and were crushed by falling walls.

PASTOR FLAYS DRY LAW

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Asserting that there was as much, if not more drinking now as there was before prohibition, and charging that prohibition had created an era of lawlessness which was debasing private and public life, the Rev. Dr. Randolph Ray, rector of the Little Church Around the Corner, in a sermon in his church today denounced prohibition as a failure and a danger to society and pleaded for "some remedial legislation."

ACTRESS BECOMES A MOTHER

HELEN HAYES (MRS. CHARLES MacARTHUR).

It's a Girl

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—"Act of God" or not, the baby who closed a Broadway show was born today to Helen Hayes. And it's a girl.

Miss Hayes, the wife of Charles MacArthur, playwright, was starring in "Coquette" when approaching maternity forced her to withdraw from the cast. Manager Jed Harris closed the show and refused to pay the company for the two weeks' notice it did not get.

He maintained that the baby was an act of God and that therefore he was not required to give notice. An arbitration board, without ruling on the act of God dispute, decided against him.

U. S. RECLAIMS ALTITUDE MARK IN LIGHT AIRSHIP

Zimmerley at St. Louis Soars 27,350 Feet.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 16.—(AP)—America apparently reclaimed another world's air record today when D. S. Zimmerley of Marshall, Mo., piloted a Barling NB-3 plane to a mean altitude of 27,350 feet.

The old record of 22,250 feet for light planes was held by Paul Baumer of Germany, and had withstood assault since July 8, 1927.

Zimmerley carried two barographs, one registering 27,800 feet and the other 26,900 feet. The record will not become official until the instruments have been checked by the National Aeronautic association and the mark honored by the Federal Aeronautique Internationale, Paris.

Feature of Exposition.

Maj. Luke Christopher, secretary of the contest committee of the association, was official observer of the flight, which was staged in connection with the international aircraft exposition.

Zimmerley, test pilot for the Nicholas-Beazley Airplane company, took the plane from the company's stock exhibit for the feat, his second attempt at the record in a low wing monoplane.

He experienced a temperature of 32 degrees below zero at top ceiling and nearly exhausted his supply of oxygen before circling down for a landing two hours and ten minutes after the takeoff.

Forced Over Illinois.

At an altitude of 15,000 feet he was struck by a 120 mile wind from the west, which forced the light ship backwards over the Mississippi river and into Illinois. The plane was powered with a 90 horse power Lambert engine.

Zimmerley, who is also holder of the world's duration record for planes of the class, wore a wool lined flying suit over a jumper, and heated helmet and goggles. He experienced no ill effects except loss of hearing, which returned slowly after his descent.

The pilot's feat adds a second world altitude mark to America's credit. Lieut. Apollo Soucek, navy flyer, holds the seaplane record of 38,549 feet.

COSTE SETS NEW RECORD.

MARSEILLES, France, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Dieudonne Coste and Pilot Codos broke the world's endurance, distance and flight duration records for planes carrying one gross ton of cargo today, flying 2,048 miles in 18 hours one minute 20 seconds. The former record was held by a German.

NAVAL LIEUTENANT KILLED IN TAKING OFF IN PLANE FROM SHIP

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Lieut. Walter George Maser, attached to the U. S. S. Nevada, now in Cuban waters, was killed aboard that ship today while taking off from the deck of the vessel in an airplane, according to reports received here. A charge of powder used in the catapult by which the plane was launched was said to have exploded, blowing his plane to bits. Maser was the son of Frederick Maser of Dickerson, N. D.

Parachute Saves Flyer.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Roy Hunt, a stunt pilot, made a 2,000 foot parachute jump today as the wings of his airplane collapsed as he was coming out of a loop. Hunt alighted in San Francisco bay and was endeavoring to escape from his tangled parachute when he was rescued by the pilots of a trans-bay ferry service plane, which descended to the water beside the struggling pilot.

Berlin Almost Taxiless as Drivers' Strike Grows

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—(AP)—A strike of taxi drivers today left Berliners almost without cabs.

ROCKET AIMED AT MOON EXPLODES; 2 ESCAPE DEATH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, Feb. 16.—The culmination of a year's labor on a rocket designed to reach heights never before attained by man or anything man-made, nearly ended in tragedy here today for Dr. Darwin Lyon, New York physician, and his assistant, Dr. Adler, young Viennese inventor.

In the rocket's final trial, before a scheduled launching on the Italian Alps, one of the containers exploded as the gyroscope stabilizer was being started. The impact smashed the building housing Dr. Lyon's laboratory to bits.

Sensing that the timing apparatus, which released liquid gas into the explosion chamber, was failing to function, Dr. Lyon tossed his assistant through the door of the laboratory and jumped after him. Flying débris fractured both bones in Dr. Lyon's right arm.

CITY OFFICIALS HUNTING CASH IN MIAMI SUNSHINE

Urge Pay Roll Action as They Attend Party.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The golden sands of Miami beach have been dotted with the reclining figures of Chicago politicians—city and county officials who have chosen this haven as an ideal retreat from the exhausting business of rescuing Chicago from a financial quagmire.

The rescuers have not forgotten their duty as public officials. Acting with wise restraint, they have delegated their mornings and most of their afternoons to swimming, golf, fishing and other recreations restful to the fevered political mind. The evenings are given to social relaxation. But along about 5 o'clock each afternoon, the aldermen and officials gather on cool verandas and over frosty drinks consider the question of paying some 44,000 employés.

Take Discussions Seriously.

The politicians take these discussions seriously. A dispatch from Chicago a few days ago telling of the plight of a county hospital scrubwoman, unpaid for weeks, shivering in her home with five hungry children, aroused great indignation. One rescuer went so far as to say that something ought to be done.

Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the finance committee, appointed a member of the newest "rescue committee" in Chicago, is a popular figure here. The alderman's genial wit and happy disposition have made his lanky figure the center of a gay circle.

Plans to Return Feb. 26.

Ald. Clark has no intention of deserting Chicago in its need, he said, and he intends to hurry back as soon as he has recovered entirely from the strain of budget making. He set Feb. 26 as a tentative date for his return.

One of the high spots of the local season last week was a party given by Anton J. Cermak, president of the Cook county board, who also has been loud in his demands that the bankers rescue Cook county. Mr. Cermak has endeared himself to the jolly set of Miami and is addressed familiarly as "Tony" everywhere he goes. Mr. Cermak received word here Saturday that county employés are soon to be paid in scrip.

At the Cermak party, Ald. Clark was a guest of honor. Near him sat Ald. Oscar Nelson of the 46th ward in Chicago, Mayor Thompson's floor leader in the city council. During the framing of the city budget, Ald. Nelson fought furiously against cut in appropriations for policemen and firemen. He asserts vehemently to the other Chicago aldermen here (there are about fifteen in all) that it is shameful that the policemen and firemen have not been paid.

Other Aldermen at Party.

Also at the party and evidently enjoying themselves greatly were Ald. Albert Horan [29th], Ald. Dennis Horan [21st], and Joseph Butler, deputy superintendent of streets.

Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, where employés are also going without pay, is enjoying the benefits of Florida climate. Over in St. Petersburg, Ald. Joseph B. McDonough, member of the finance committee and chairman of the transportation committee, which is charged with solving the traction problem, is tasting the delights of Tampa Bay.

Charles Krutckoff, chairman of the board of assessors, recently passed through here. He went on to Havana. Ald. James B. Bowler is another member of the finance committee regretfully planning to return to Chicago.

Dr. Kegel Is Visitor.

Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, who complained bitterly that his health department had been hampered by personnel cuts in the new budget, was also a recent visitor. The tonic sunshine cheered him up considerably, he said. He intends to spend several weeks here and in the West Indies.

There was at first a disposition on the part of local hotel keepers who have been reading stories about "penniless Chicago" to treat the visiting officials warily. But no tax anticipation warrants were presented to pay hotel bills, and the Chicago politicians are now praised loudly for their open-handedness with good, hard cash.

PRESIDENT SECLUDES SELF WHILE SPEEDING BACK TO WASHINGTON

Aboard President Hoover's Train, en Route to Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—President Hoover was headed back to work and cold weather today after a week of sport. He and Mrs. Hoover stayed in the seclusion of their private car throughout the day, spending their time reading or talking with friends.

With them on the car were the Associate Justice Stone of the United States Supreme court and Mrs. Stone, Dr. Vernon Kellogg of the National Research council, and Mark Sullivan, Washington newspaper man, and Mrs. Sullivan. All were fishing companions of the President and Mrs. Hoover during the week they spent aboard the houseboat The Sauntérer, off Long Key, Fla.

Mr. Hoover will arrive in Washington early tomorrow. Bronzed by the sun, he was perfectly satisfied with the efforts of his week of rest and sport, although from the standpoint of fishing, the expedition was only moderately successful.

At Savannah, the party was joined by Raymond Robbins of Chicago, a long-time friend of the President.

ENGINEERS PLAN TO WAR ON FAKE TRADE SCHOOLS

A nation-wide campaign against fraudulent trade and correspondence schools will be started immediately by the American Association of Engineers, according to an announcement from the organization's Chicago headquarters yesterday.

Plans call for appointment of a committee of leading engineers to coöperate with state and federal officials in exposing spurious mail order schools, particularly in Chicago, New York, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Detroit, Washington, Milwaukee, and St. Louis.

"A five year investigation by the association revealed staffs of 3,000 to 4,000 meagrely paid instructors with 20 or more high pressure executives drawing large salaries," said the announcement. "Stock companies broadcasting synthetic education in any of 200 subjects were capitalized as high as $10,000,000 and may have had 100,000 students, usually drawn from small towns in western and mountainous sections."

RUSSIA PUSHES WAR ON RELIGION; DEFIES WORLD

Firewood Made of Wood Icons; Others Sold.

MOSCOW, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Despite the clamor of protests abroad against the closing of churches in Russia, soviet authorities in various parts of the country today ordered conversion of a score or more additional churches, synagogues, and mosques into workers' clubs, schools, grain warehouses, and workshops.

This action was taken, officials declared, "in response to the massed demands of the workers." In most cases church bells were removed and converted into metal for industrial purposes.

Silence Church Bells.

In a number of towns the municipal councils, following the Moscow government's recent action, have forbidden the ringing of church bells. A total of eleven churches were abolished in the Serpukhoff district alone, while three additional churches in the Tarussky district soon will be closed.

The closing of the churches has left a tremendous number of holy icons on the market. They can be bought for a song. Icons made of wood and having no historical or artistic value are usually used for firewood, while more valuable ones are deposited in the local museums.

French Split Threatened.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 15.—A French-soviet split is threatened following the recent uprising among the troops in Indo-China which have been attributed to revolutionary activities by foreign agitators. The French colonial authorities have become alarmed by these disturbances.

The recent abduction of Gen. Alexander Koutepoff, the leader of the White Russian exiles in Paris, and the strain in diplomatic relations following the attitude of Maxim Litvinoff, acting commissar for foreign affairs, toward the French ambassador to Moscow, Jean Herbette, who has had to suffer several outrages during the last months, may also cause the severance of French and soviet relations.

Although the French government maintains a polite and discreet silence, the eventual rupture with Moscow will be considered by the cabinet council this week. It is understood that the chamber of deputies would vote heartily for a severance of relations with Russia.

BISHOP W. T. MANNING ATTACKS SOVIET FOR WARRING ON RELIGION

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Bishop William T. Manning of the Episcopal diocese of New York, from the pulpit of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, today denounced the soviet government as "seeking by propaganda and by force to destroy religion and to destroy also those moral ideals which religion has given the world."

"It's attacks are directed," he said, "not against those of any one faith, but against all who believe in God."

Bishop Manning spoke in response to the appeal of Pope Pius for international and interdenominational union in prayers on behalf of "those suffering persecution and their oppressors."

Bishop Manning called for prayers in all Episcopal churches of the diocese on March 19 and for a special service at the cathedral here on March 16.

Bishop Manning said he had "seen the most blasphemous, revolting and obscene pictures" issued as a part of the soviet propaganda.

COPS WHO FLED MELROSE PARK RETURN TO DUTY

Rocco Passarella, former police chief of Melrose Park, who mysteriously disappeared a month ago while acting as police lieutenant and agent of the federal authorities against bootleggers, returned to police service yesterday with the rank of patrolman.

Policeman Emil Ristau, whose simultaneous disappearance led to belief that both had been kidnaped by gangsters, is also back on duty. The men had left the village of their own will. Both are assigned to inside work because, as Passarella explains it, none of their fellows will venture to patrol a beat with them for fear they might be shot down on the street.

COUNTY WORKERS FACING 10% LOSS IN SALARY SCRIP

Officials Are Gloomy, but Insist on Issue.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The county proceeded yesterday to carry out its plan of paying its 3,862 employés in tax anticipation warrants instead of cash. The writing of the warrants, all without due date, for the pay period between Dec. 15 and 31, totaling $379,000, was completed yesterday afternoon by the county controller's staff.

The county officials responsible for the policy of paying wages in scrip defended their action by saying they had been forced into it by the acute needs of the workers and the growing chaos in the county offices. But there were admissions that had it been foreseen that merchants would refuse to accept county warrants for cash—as revealed in THE TRIBUNE yesterday—they would have hesitated to issue scrip to the workers.

Learn of Private Loans.

In defending the issue of scrip, the statement was made that some department heads had arranged to borrow the money on their personal notes to pay their employés. It was pointed out that if some of the workers got their pay, while the great majority remained unpaid, it would cause friction and jealousy, and lower the morale of the needy employés to an extent which might paralyze county functions.

There was added gloom among county officials over the issuance of scrip when it was learned from banking sources that the employés would suffer a discount loss of 10 per cent in cashing their warrants.

Newby Offers Defense.

Harry A. Newby, chairman of the finance committee, who appears to be in charge of the county board in the absence of President Cermak in Florida, was one of those who insisted yesterday that the board could not avoid ordering the tax warrants issued.

"Have you rescinded the order to pay in warrants in view of the fact that merchants have said they will not accept them as money," was asked Commissioner Newby.

"No, they will have to be issued," Newby replied. "That was the only alternative left to us. The lines could not be held any longer."

"Whom were you holding the lines against?"

Tells of Loan Plan.

The commissioner replied by telling of the plan of officials to borrow money and advance it to employés in their departments, a move which he feared might imperil the county machinery because of the effect it would have on the unpaid employés. Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court, in explaining this report, said last night that he had made advances of salaries for the first half of January to subordinates who were in pressing need of cash.

Asked if the employés will be compelled to accept a tax warrant, Mr. Newby said: "We are making our pay roll, and will tender each employé a warrant for his salary. I don't suppose we can compel the employé to accept."

Some time ago Silas H. Strawn of the citizens' committee said that bankers had told him that such a procedure would decrease the market value of the tax warrants and yesterday he referred to the county board's order as "ill advised."

Kris Expresses Fears.

County Commissioner Frank J. Kris who has been connected with a bank for 20 years said yesterday that the situation doesn't look so good." He went on:

"If the big merchants of Chicago refuse the warrants, the employés will be forced to peddle them and that will create an undesirable situation from every view point."

"Didn't the Chicago and Cook County Bankers' association advise their members two weeks ago not to cash warrants issued to public employés as compensation," Mr. Kris was asked.

"Yes, but we were given later information that led me to believe that the situation had changed somewhat. But since reading THE TRIBUNE this morning I have gotten still another slant. You do not know how desperate the situation of some county employés is, but I do not want to hand them a piece of paper that reputable merchants will not accept and others will insist upon discounting. I will look around tomorrow morning before these tax warrants go out."

Metzger Regrets Action.

"I would never vote to issue tax warrants to employés had I suspected they would be discounted," said County Commissioner Andrew Metzger. "I thought they would be accepted by the small banks and merchants. The situation among the employés is terrible."

The forecast that the employés would have to pay a discount on cashing their warrants was made by a prominent banker, who said he did not want his name made public in connection with the muddle at present.

"How much will the warrants be discounted?"

"Ten per cent," he replied. "Can any one expect that tax warrants will sell better than forest preserve bonds which the county board sold last week for 90 cents on the dollar? This discount means that the employé will be cheated to that extend. That's a shame. Later, when the county sells the warrants, the price will have been established. If the county must have so much money and sells its tax warrants at a discount, then there must be more taxes to pay for that discount. That applies regardless of the form in which the discount is presented."

What Employé Thinks.

"I can't squawk," replied one county employé who was asked for his comment upon script. "I'll take the warrant issued, me and not say a word, but its dirty politics. The county board has already reduced salaries 16 2-3 per cent by making us work 12 months for 10 months' pay. Now, at the reduced pay, we are forced to take tax warrants and then dispose of them for whatever we can get.

"Suppose it is a discount of 10 per cent. That means our pay has been reduced 25 per cent this year. We will get 75 cents on the dollar. If the discount is larger our pay will be reduced just that much more.

"The bosses say all the trouble lies in the delay in the reassessment. Who's running the reassessment? Not the employés. The bosses have put on the brakes and it's the bosses who are dealing out the tax warrants. It's the bosses who reduced our pay.

"We need a new set of bosses. We earn our salaries by work in the day time, but hold our jobs because we do politics at nights, Saturday afternoons and Sundays. Then they jip us out of 25 cents on the dollar. They cuss the banks privately, but who created this mess? It wasn't the banks. It was the bosses."

The Chicago Federation of Labor voiced its protest yesterday against the financial condition of the local governments. The resolution adopted was presented by William L. McFetridge, delegate of the school janitors' union. It requested Gov. Emmerson to call a special session of the legislature to enact relief measures and investigate the Chicago situation.

ASK LEGAL BAN ON REBUILDING OF DOG REFUGE

Legal action was threatened yesterday to block Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin of Lake Forest in her determination to rebuild Orphans of the Storm, a refuge for homeless dogs a mile west of Deerfield, which was partially destroyed by fire early last Tuesday.

Herman Goldberg of Kenosha, owner of a 65 acre subdivision adjoining the burned kennels, said he intended this week to consult a lawyer with a view to have the refuge declared a nuisance. Eight other property owners of the vicinity and several of his own tenants are supporting the idea, he said.

"Why doesn't she build the dog house on her own Lake Forest estate if she's so fond of dogs?" demanded Goldberg. "The place is a menace to everybody in the vicinity. Parents were afraid to let their children play outside for fear a vicious dog might escape and attack them. Dog howls kept the neighbors awake at night."

"You're all puffed out—what's the matter, boy?" asked Sergt. Arthur Maynard, who had noted odd bulges under the Negro's overcoat above the knees.

"Just cramps, boss. My legs hurt and I got them bandaged," Budges tried to explain. But Sergt. Maynard made a swift search and drew a rubber hot water bottle out of each leg of the Negro's trousers. Each bottle contained a quart of moonshine.

HAND OF MORGAN IS SEEN BEHIND U. S. NAVAL DEAL

Parity Surrender Proves Big Mystery.

favors American entrance into the league of nations, which favors American acceptance of league terms for entering the world court, which advocated cancellation of war debts owed to America—what is more natural than that the Morgan group, with its vast investments in British shipping, held in vasselage to the British government, should favor American naval surrender, perpetuating British mastery of the seas?

Hoover and Stimson.

They think they perceive in the attitude of President Hoover proof that he is no longer at odds with the Morgan group that opposed his nomination for numerous reasons, among which was his advocacy of prohibition of foreign loans for non-productive purposes.

To those inspired by such suspicions a particular significance is attached to the fact that the American case in the London naval conference is in the hands of Henry L. Stimson, a protégé of Elihu Root, who recently surrendered to British terms for our admission to the world court; of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, who floated the first British loan in Chicago at the beginning of the war, and who was the Morgan group's candidate for the presidential nomination at Kansas City; of Dwight W. Morrow, a former partner in the house of Morgan; of Charles Francis Adams, whose daughter is the wife of Henry Morgan and once lived in J. P. Morgan's London house; of Senator David A. Reed, apostle of Andrew Mellon, who is financially affiliated with Morgan, and who has been classed as pro-British ever since he sponsored the national origins emigration restriction doubling the English quota.

Vaporings of Anglophobes.

By defenders of these delegates such insinuations are resentfully pronounced as the veriest of vaporings of Anglophobes, catching at straws to make out a case. It is asserted that each one of these men has affiliations and records on which they could quite easily be convicted of prejudice against the British.

Another school of administration critics hold that the American surrender is due to the innate pacifism of President Hoover, who is sincerely convinced the Kellogg pact has ended the danger of war and is bent on getting, at any price, a naval limitation agreement which can be used to justify suspension of navy building by the United States.

Tongues of Naval Delegates Wag as Tardieu Is Stricken

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.—The news that Premier Andre Tardieu is ill and may not return to London for a week or more has caused much speculation in naval conference circles, whether it is a diplomatic illness or the real kind which entails discomfort.

When Premier Tardieu left here Friday it was rumored that he might be detained in Paris by a domestic political crisis, and it was even hinted that he might not be premier of France by the end of the week. It was known that he was greatly dissatisfied with the course of the conference and what he is alleged to have described as the impracticable idealism of the American and British delegates.

Want War to Cost Less.

To the logical French mind there is one and only one object of this conference, and that is to make war or defense cheaper by reaching an agreement to stabilize on a lower scale than at present, but in about the same proportion as the nations would build anyway. They have no patience with British and American talk about the Kellogg peace pact having changed the face of the world.

The Kellogg pact to them means simply nothing, and this does not mean that they were hypocritical in signing it. They have no objection to noble gestures so long as they are not committed to compromise their national safety, or as some say, their national desire for hegemony of Europe. For a period after the war, while their finances were in bad shape, they were willing to sing small, but now that they have gotten rid of debts, abolished unemployment, restored trade and reduced taxation, they feel that they can afford a big navy as well as a big army and a big air force, and do not see why they should not if the others do.

Refuse to Weaken Defense.

If the others agree to limit they will do so too in strict proportion, but they will steer clear of all commitments which might weaken their military power relatively to that of other nations of Europe.

What America does they frankly do not care. Their only interest in this is what its effect may be on British armaments, and they are willing to wait until Great Britain and America settle their problems. Then they will say what they actually want.

It is a common agreement that the figures presented last week are only for bargaining purposes. Premier Tardieu himself has declared they are capable of amendment. They are based entirely on what France thinks Great Britain's maximum may be, and if Great Britain and America are able to agree to reduce that maximum, France is willing to come down in proportion.

This is one of the reasons why British politicians, and Americans, too, are disposed to suspect that Premier Tardieu's illness is diplomatic and to expect that it will last at least a week.

In an attempt to reconcile Japan's demands to the strength which the United States and Great Britain are disposed to accord her, Prime Minister MacDonald, Secretary of State Stimson, and Reijiro Wakatsuki will meet at St. James's palace tomorrow afternoon, accompanied by naval experts. The question of capital ships, aircraft carriers, and auxiliary ships will be discussed on the basis of the American proposal of granting 60 per cent tonnage to Japan, contrasted against Japan's claims for 70 per cent.

Tardieu Ordered to Bed.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 16.—On doctor's orders Premier Andre Tardieu's return to London has been indefinitely postponed. The heavy cold which the French premier had when he returned to Paris developed into a bad case of the grippe, complicated with laryngitis and a high temperature. He has been ordered to bed for three or four days at least. The ministerial council, which was to be held tomorrow to draw up tactics for meeting the formidable onslaught of the cabinet's foes in the chamber, has been postponed until Thursday.

BRITISH JOIN U. S. IN SINGING NAVY PARLEY "BLUES"

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.—With the naval conference nearing the end of its fourth week, English newspapers are beginning to reprint skeptical utterances of the American press and Washington politicians concerning the tone and tendencies of the negotiations in progress at St. James's palace.

This comparatively new note of cynicism, which has crept into comment being cabled from America, is, to be entirely frank, in harmony with what the English people themselves are thinking.

There is every reason to believe that members of the British government, including its conference delegates, are feeling greatly disappointed.

DON'T GET TOO IMPATIENT! REED ADVISES YANKS

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Senator David A. Reed, a member of the American delegation to the London naval conference, spoke over the radio from London today, his address being broadcast by the Columbia system. He thanked the American people for their support of the delegation, and said the delegates were aware that America desires a first class navy, while at the same time is anxious for reduction in armaments.

"When results begin to come," he said, "they will come fast, and in the meantime we trust that you will not become too impatient.

"We have been greatly encouraged by the plain evidence of support from public opinion at home in America."

liceman will be promoted for killing you one of these days."

Frank Gultuso came on the platform. A woman gasped and pushed her way forward.

"I'm sure he is the man who killed my husband, John Nerad, a Cicero policeman, on July 10," she told Lieut. Sullivan.

The man with Galtuso, who lives at 2505 North McVicker avenue, was Daniel Patrizze, 4457 West Austin avenue, and Mrs. Nerad thought he might have been one of the murderers. She said a taxicab driver named Sullivan, who witnessed the murder, could make certain her identification and the chauffeur was summoned.

Downstairs in the office of Acting Chief of Detectives John Egan, a prisoner was the center of attraction. He was John Lazarski, who escaped with five others from the county jail on Dec. 19, 1929. He had been recaptured Saturday night, along with five young men who protested they were not robbers.

John Sisuly, leader of a criminal band and of the jail break, was caught almost at the same time in Detroit, after his companion, Raymond O'Laughlin, had been killed in an attempted holdup of a Western Union office in Detroit. In the battle two policemen were killed and, rather than be captured alive, O'Laughlin put his pistol in his mouth and fired it.

Sergt. Thomas Lamie was seeking to fasten many robberies on three men and two young women whom he arrested Saturday night. The prisoners were Nicholas Voloto, Harry Friedman, Jack Davis, Betty Meyers and Irene Berent. The girls said they were taxi dancers. The Meyers girl said she lived at 1923 North La Salle street and the four others said they lived at 3423 Elaine place. The men admitted several robberies.

William Cook, 18 years old, 5312 Dearborn street, Negro gunman who was captured with three others in an attempted robbery on Saturday night, was shot and wounded seriously by a policeman last night when he and one of his companions tried to escape from a police patrol wagon. The other Negro, Robert Price, 18 years old, 1342 Hastings street, surrendered when the policeman, Frank Nolan of the Warren avenue station, started firing.

Cook and Price were being returned from the showup to the Fillmore street police station with eight other prisoners and were just climbing into the patrol in the rear of the detective bureau when they made their break for liberty.

Commissioner Russell announced he would seek a lieutenancy for Acting Sergeant Frank Reynolds who killed his eleventh criminal last Thursday night when he saw a Negro committing a robbery.

NICKEL PLATE ROAD

7 Hours in Bed and Not 7 Minutes of Sleep!

The Toll Acidity Takes

You go to bed dog-tired, but the minute you hit the pillow all sleepiness vanishes. If you do sleep at all, it's only in snatches and you wake out of these "stupors" with a strange, startled feeling, sometimes in a cold sweat. Morning finds you a rag, gaunt and hollow-eyed and barely able to crawl out of bed.

Acidity is due to our unnatural eating habits, our excessive smoking and irregular hours. The excess acid upsets digestion and causes acid-indigestion with gas and heartburn. It causes putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal, which frequently results in ragged nerves, sleeplessness, logy days and general loss of strength and vitality.

A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100 year old pharmaceutical house in Germany. This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxoids, which do not have to be chewed, but which may be swallowed whole. Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active, oxygen! Now, active oxygen, as any doctor will tell you, when generated within the digestive tract does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks the putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It exercises a stimulating effect upon the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the movement of the bowels.

All three effects are necessary to the true relief of acidity, and Magnesia Oxoids supply them in a perfectly natural manner.

5-Day Acidity Test

To ascertain just how "acid" you are, make this 5-day acidity test. Get a box of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen's Drug Stores and Economical Drug Stores or any other druggist on our money-back guarantee. Take two after each meal for five days. Mark the change in your physical condition—note how more normal and restful your sleep and how more cheerful and active your days. If you don't sleep better and have more "pep" and power, return the balance of the Magnesia Oxoids to the druggist and he will refund your money.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

TWO KILLED, NINE INJURED IN TWO AUTO CRASHES

Speeder Causes Death of Woman and Flees.

Two persons were killed and nine others were injured, two of them seriously, in two automobile collisions last night. The dead were Mrs. Hazel Evers, 37 years old, 5121 South Homan avenue, and Louis Larson, 36 years old, 5448 Byron street.

Mrs. Evers was killed when the automobile driven by her husband, Carl, 38 years old, was struck head-on by a speeding automobile at 48th street and Kedzie avenue. Evers suffered serious injuries and was taken to the German Deaconess hospital. Mrs. Evers' brother, Claude Williams, 28 years old, and Ivan Campbell, 20 years old, both of whom live in the Evers home, were cut and bruised.

Driver Flees Scene.

The driver of the car that struck Evers' machine was slightly injured, according to witnesses, but fled from the scene. His companion, James Murcsek, 21 years old, 5794 Archer avenue, was taken into custody by the police and his lacerations were treated at the hospital. He gave the driver's name and the police began a search for the fugitive.

Larson was fatally injured when his automobile crashed into a Cunningham Ice Cream company truck in Irving Park boulevard near Kenmore avenue. He died at the American hospital. The condition of Charles Carlson, 4722 North Troy street, who was riding in the front seat of the sedan with Larson, was said to be critical. A third passenger, John Fitzmorris, 4037 North Mango avenue, and Chauncey Williams, 1657 Farragut avenue, the driver of the truck, suffered cuts and bruises.

The deaths of Mrs. Evers and Larson increased the Cook county motor toll for 1930 to 99.

Held by Police.

Clarence T. Richtford, 23 years old, 7117 Wellington avenue, was held last night by the Niles Center police, charged with reckless driving, after his automobile caused a three-cornered traffic accident in which Harvey Mock, 19 years old, 4617 Kenmore avenue, was injured on Oakton avenue, Niles Center, early yesterday. Richtford was captured as he fled from the scene by George Didier, 30 years old, 522 Sheridan road, Evanston, a private policeman, whose car was overturned when Richtford attempted to pass him on the right. Mock was riding in Didier's car, and injured his hand when Didier swerved into Richtford's car trying to avoid a collision with a machine driven by Walter Woywott, 27 years old, 3043 Eastwood avenue.

HOOVER'S BOARD IN HAITI TO HEAR FARM AID FAILS

Commission to Be Told New Treaty Needed.

BY WILLIAM LAWSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Wherever it goes in Haiti, President Hoover's investigating commission will hear violent criticism of and probably serious charges against Dr. George F. Freeman and his administration of the Service Technique d'Agriculture.

Some of the criticism may be justified, many of the charges probably will be disproved by investigation, but all will be conclusive evidence that if Uncle Sam is to accomplish in less than 50 years what he set out to do in 1915 in ten years, the treaty under which the job was undertaken must be speedily rewritten.

The record of the service technique will be cited to the commission as a notable example of the result of trying to create a stable government in Haiti by building from the top down—a course dictated by the treaty of 1915—instead of beginning at the bottom to build a foundation.

Only Two Classes.

At the outset it must be realized that Haiti has only two classes, an élite, aristocratic, educated mulatto minority—the pre-occupation ruling class—comprising about one-fiftieth of the population, and a mass of more than 2,500,000 illiterate, poverty stricken "black" peasants. Between the two extremes is a rigidly drawn color line with all of the implacable hatreds born in a hundred years of revolutions, butcheries, and tyranny before the United States intervened in 1915.

There is no middle class of property owning, industrialists and farmers whose interest in their own welfare and the continuance of prosperity would demand peace and order and would be an assurance of stability in government after the American protectorate is withdrawn. Development of that middle class has been the dream of Dr. Freeman.

To realize his dream Dr. Freeman has established rural agricultural schools where the peasant, in addition to learning the three R's, may be taught how to increase production on his little farm plot, how to diversify his crops and market them efficiently.

Trade Schools Conducted.

In the cities and towns trade vocational schools, open to adults as well as boys and girls, with both day and night classes, have been opened under the direction of highly trained instructors, and in addition to these purely educational activities, the service technique is carrying forward intensive agricultural research.

What has been the result of all this? Dr. Freeman today is undoubtedly the most unpopular of all the so-called treaty officials administering public services in Haiti under the American occupation. The great white granite and marble Eccole Central, at Damien, about five miles from Port au Prince, the central normal school for agricultural teachers and the headquarters for the service technique, is derisively referred to as "Freeman's dream factory."

Uprising Against Freeman.

The uprising last December, fomented by "élite" agitators, hopeful it would force withdrawal of the occupation and leave them free to plunder the country as before 1915, was directed chiefly against the service technique and Dr. Freeman. For months the latter has been constantly guarded and a detail of soldiers from the Garde d'Haiti has been stationed at his home.

Whether or not it decides after investigating that Dr. Freeman is the man for the job, the Hoover commission will realize before it goes far into the Haitian problem that a middle class cannot be developed out of the élite aristocracy, which is instinctively averse to work of any kind, and that the treaty must be revised.

MARSHALL PROPOSED FOR U. S. SOLICITOR TO SUCCEED HUGHES

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—James Marshall, son of the late Louis Marshall, has been recommended by President Hoover for appointment as solicitor general of the United States to succeed Charles E. Hughes Jr., it was learned today. Mr. Hughes resigned as solicitor general upon the confirmation of the appointment of his father as chief justice of the United States Supreme court.

The appointment of Mr. Marshall was recommended by Samuel S. Koenig, Republican county chairman of New York county, of which Mr. Marshall is a resident.

SUPREME COURT VACANCIES MAY PERPLEX HOOVER

Radicals Are Eager for More Battles.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Prospective appointment of several additional justices of the Supreme court has become one of the most disturbing problems of President Hoover's administration.

The senate radicals have determined to subject the President's future appointees to the same treatment accorded Charles Evans Hughes.

If the selections made by the President have had corporation affiliations, particularly with public utilities or the railroads, they will be pilloried as agents of great combinations of wealth which are encroaching upon the liberties of the people. It will be charged as it was in the case of Mr. Hughes that their relations with corporations have been such as to cause them to side with the present majority of the court which is alleged to place "property rights" above "human rights."

Gauntlet Is Not Inviting.

That the President will find it increasingly difficult to induce men of the highest standing in the legal profession to run the gauntlet of the fire of the radicals is a certainty. After one or two more men of prominence have had Mr. Hughes' experience before the senate it is probable that few lawyers will care to make a financial sacrifice as did the new chief justice to accept an appointment on the bench.

Mr. Hoover not only has ahead of him the appointment of possibly as many as a majority of the members of the Supreme court but he happens to be the first President to face the new system of confirmation of appointments by the senate in open session.

Mr. Hughes was the first justice of the Supreme court to be considered by the senate in this manner. Such controversies as have centered around other appointees to the Supreme court have been settled in executive session. There has been no incentive for the radicals to make long speeches inasmuch as the press was not able to print them nor were they recorded in the Congressional Record.

Two Liberals May Retire.

The radicals are highly elated over what they regard as an achievement in their unsuccessful fight over the nomination of Mr. Hughes. They point out that about one-third of the members of the senate lined up against him despite the fact that he was a man of outstanding prominence and was known to be held in high esteem by the country at large.

The controversy over future Hoover appointments to the Supreme court is likely to be particularly acute because of the fact that the two present justices who have been most conspicuous as dissenters from majority opinions are due for early retirement. These are Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who will be 89 years old next month, and Justice Louis D. Brandeis, who was 73 years old last November. Justices Holmes and Brandeis, together with Justice Harlan Fiske Stone, the youngest member of the court, constitute the so-called liberal group, the other six justices being regarded as conservatives.

Justices Holmes and Brandeis have been highly praised by the radicals in the senate. It is obvious that if either or both should retire the selection of persons more conservative in their views would provoke a fight even more intense than over the appointment of Hughes, a conservative, to succeed William Howard Taft, a conservative.

Justices Holmes and Brandeis are eligible for retirement at full pay at any time. It is assumed that Justice Holmes cannot continue on the bench much longer, although he remains in good health. There is more doubt as to whether Justice Brandeis will choose to retire within the next few years.

A third member of the court, Justice Willis Van Devanter, also is eligible for retirement. He will be 71 in April.

MEXICANS FACE LOSS OF PISTOLS BY RUBIO'S ORDER

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 16.—(AP)—As a preliminary to President Rubio's plan for taking pistols away from Mexico's entire civilian population, detectives today stopped citizens on street cars, in theaters, in saloons and other public places and confiscated the pistols of those who had no permits.

The campaign will be extended all over the country. When the president has recovered sufficiently to direct the work, he intends to withdraw the permits themselves, and thoroughly to "depistolize" the citizenry.

Even congressmen will lose their permits. Only the police and soldiers will carry weapons.

GUNMAN ADMITS PART IN DETROIT HOLDUP KILLING

Says Police Raids Drove Him Out of Chicago.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—John Sisuly, 26 year old gunman, who participated in two holdups of the main Western Union office here, was arrested this morning. Although he refused to implicate his confederates, he freely admitted taking part in the gun fight in which two private policemen and a bandit were killed after the second holdup.

Sisuly, when caught, was in pain from a wound in the left arm inflicted by Patrolman Joseph H. Reals during the battle.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Watts said tonight that he will charge Sisuly and two unidentified men with the murder of Jess Catlin, 38, and John Scott, 46, the two guards slain Thursday night. Sisuly will be arraigned Monday morning and is expected to plead guilty.

Detectives Spring Trap.

The bandit's arrest came about as he stepped into a carefully laid police "plant." Thirteen detectives, under the leadership of Fred W. Frahm, head of the homicide squad, and three Western Union investigators, waited near a Henry street apartment house until a few minutes before midnight. Then they saw their quarry approach and enter the building.

They followed him to a room, and catching him alone, covered him with their guns. Sisuly moved as if to reach for a weapon, but stopped when he realized that it was too late. Later two guns were found on him.

At headquarters he spoke freely to Watts, but refused to discuss his confederates.

Escaped from Cook County Jail.

"I'm no squawker," he said. "I'll take my own rap."

Sisuly admitted he is wanted in Chicago for four holdups and that he escaped from the Cook county jail in December with Raymond O'Loughlin, who was killed in the second Western Union holdup.

He told Watts that he left Chicago because of the numerous raids recently staged by police.

The Western Union office here was first held up on Feb. 4, when the bandits got $2,000. Sisuly said he read in a newspaper the next day that they had overlooked $3,000 in a safe and a second visit was decided upon. It was made Feb. 13, and $300 taken.

RAIDS ON GAMBLING IN MIAMI STIR UP 2 OPPOSING FACTIONS

Miami, Fla., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Opposing forces in the battle for and against enforcement of anti-gambling laws in this winter playground were reported to be holding councils of war tonight.

The indefinite alignments, understood to divide factions of the winter gambling fraternity, have left officials and gamblers in the dark. Raids late last night by Deputy Sheriffs, however, more of less defined the stand of law enforcement officials as one of continued action through the wealthy winter resort area.

The raids were made on two night clubs, the Floridan in Miami Beach and the Embassy club here. At the former place $100,000 worth of gambling equipment was seized in a room apparently devoted to games of chance. No patrons were found.

Nineteen arrests were made in connection with the raids, which were made at two dog racing tracks and a number of gambling rooms.

LESS DRINKING AMONG PUPILS, SURVEY SHOWS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Indications that there has been less drinking among high school students under the prohibition laws than there was prior to their enactment were described today as being reflected in reports in a survey being made at the request of the law enforcement commission.

J. W. Crabtree, secretary of the National Education association, said that his organization had been asked by the commission to aid it in making contact with sources of information and that early reports that he had seen indicated that there was less drinking by students under the dry laws than there had been before.

Crabtree said that while he did not feel at liberty to make public the reports, his familiarity with school conditions had led him to anticipate such a result.

21 Horses Rescued from Fire by Stable Caretaker

Twenty-one horses were rescued by Moses Nagursky, 1053 Washburne avenue, their caretaker, when the Reliable livery stable, 1057 Washburne avenue, caught fire early yesterday. Without stopping to dress, Nagursky dashed to the barn from his home nearby after he had been awakened by the smell of smoke. The hay loft of the second floor of the two story brick building was ablaze, but Nagursky succeeded in getting the frightened horses to the street. The blaze resulted in a 3-11 alarm. Fire Chief Michael Corrigan estimated the loss at $15,000.

ACQUITTED DRY LAW SLAYER IS BACK ON U. S. JOB

Widow Silent on Verdict in Virkkula Case.

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Acquitted by a jury in federal court here last night on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting last June of Gust Henry Virkkula, Emmet J. White, U. S. customs officer, is to return to his duties tomorrow as a member of the border prohibition patrol.

White was suspended after killing Virkkula on a country road when the latter failed to stop his car which the officer wanted to search for liquor. Reinstatement became effective automatically with his acquittal.

Widow to Live in Duluth.

The jury returned its verdict after less than three hours' deliberation, presiding Judge William A. Cant having ruled out a finding of second degree murder charge.

White's relief as a result of the verdict was evident today. He grinned broadly in contrast with the tired expression which he bore throughout the trial.

Mrs. Virkula, widow of the slain man, who with her two daughters was a passenger in the Virkkula automobile the night of the killing, is now making her home in Duluth. She had nothing to say today of the verdict.

Try U. S. Agent Today.

Tomorrow the federal attorneys will figure in another trial in federal court here, prosecuting a former customs official on bribery charges. The case involves Oscar E. Dahly, former collector of customs at Duluth, and in charge for some years of the territory including the place where Virkkula was killed. Dahly, Ernest W. Beaton, former supervising customs agent; Thomas F. Hoban, former customs inspector; and Edward A. Peters, a Duluth druggist, are to be tried for conspiracy to violate the federal statute forbidding United States officers to receive compensation for service in which the United States government is a party.

The government charges that $4,500 was paid to the three officers by a druggist after he had been arrested on a narcotic charge.

Jury Holds Fate of Twelve.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The fate of 12 remaining defendants in the Pottawatomie county liquor conspiracy case will not become known at least until federal court reconvenes tomorrow.

The last official word from the jurors came at 10:30 o'clock last night when they retired, nearly 12 hours after the case had been placed in their hands by Judge Edgar H. Vaught.

The 12 defendants, including Randall Pitman, county attorney, and Frank Fox, former sheriff, were among the 102 persons originally indicted under the national prohibition law. Pleas of guilt, sustention of demurrers, dismissals, deaths, flights, and instructed verdicts have eliminated the others.

An Investment that does not fluctuate in value—
Life Insurance

OWNERS of life insurance have had occasion recently to compare the stability of this form of investment with that of even the highest grade securities.

A chart of the market price averages of leading stocks for twenty years shows an irregular line that rises and dips, sometimes vertically, with "peaks and valleys".

There are no "depressions" in the investment values of life insurance policies. They do not fluctuate with business cycles. From year to year, the 44 million Metropolitan Life Insurance policies show a steady increase in values to policy-holders.

The man who regularly invests part of his earnings in life insurance can go to sleep each night with the knowledge that he is building an estate of the greatest security and with a sure investment return for every dollar paid in.

Life insurance is an investment whose value constantly increases the longer it is kept in force.

GUARD CAPTAIN SOON TO ADORN WHITE HOUSE

Increase in Police Staff Sought by Hoover.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—A captain of the guard is about to be added to a White House establishment that already boasts a ceremonials officer.

A few days after President Hoover appointed a special state department official to attend the White House formalities, a bill was introduced in the house providing for an increase in the White House police force and the appointment of a captain to command the unit.

This bill, bearing the approval of Mr. Hoover, is expected to be passed by congress in time to add a captain to the White House roster of employs.

Sponsors of the movement state that the only object of the new bill is to add to the number of policemen at the White House.

Coolidge Cut Down Expenses.

A few years ago the task of arranging place cards at White House functions was performed by a young lady social secretary, aided in some instances by a state department functionary.

Mr. Coolidge substituted a diplomat from the state department for the young lady who had been acting as social secretary. This career man devoted only part of his time to the White House assignment, spending about half of his time at his regular state department position.

Mr. Robbins' Duties.

President Hoover appointed Warren Delano Robbins, a career officer, with the rank of minister, as ceremonials officer for the White House. An office was established for Minister Robbins in the White House proper, and arrangements made for him to devote his entire time to social problems.

Determining questions of precedence at dinners is only one of the ceremonials officer's tasks. He arranges the cards for formal dinners, makes out the guest list for the regular receptions, prepares the invitations, sends them out and sees that everything runs off smoothly.

15 French Miners, Trapped Since Last Thursday, Saved

British Industry Clamors for Tax Relief to Avoid Ruin

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The prospect of a rebellion of industry against taxation, which is heavier in England than anywhere else in the world, opens with the issuance of a statement by the Federation of British Industries which says that "the limits of industry's taxable capacity have been reached."

"The present volume of production," the statement continues, "is not sufficient to provide the sums which are at present being expended by the state for unproductive purposes without grave injury to national economy." This is, in effect, a warning to the Labor party that its program of social work, in which it contemplates adding £100,000,000 to the budget, must look to economies rather than to increased taxation of industry for its funds.

State's Revenue Drops.

The revenue, the statement says, is losing buoyancy. Not only is the total amount that the government receives from income tax decreasing yearly, but productiveness, in proportion to tax revenue, is dropping also. Considering the last four fiscal years, a period in which the present 20 per cent income tax has been in force, there has been a steady diminution of revenue from $1,183,440,000 to last year's figures of $1,146,000,000.

That the decline in industry's productiveness is directly due to overtaxation is suggested by the figures on the percentage of income tax which has been derived from various sources. This shows that 20 per cent of the income tax has been derived directly from productive industries. It is shown that 22.3 per cent of the tax comes from mining and allied industries. In addition, industry bears a large part of the burden of 17.3 per cent of the tax which is paid on distribution, transport, and communication. From real estate, 13 per cent of the income tax is derived. Industry contributes a large share of this. Another 22.6 per cent comes from salaries, which, of course, comes indirectly from industry. About the only items for which productive industry does not foot a good part of the bill is farming.

National Debt Heavier.

Although sterling figures show that the national debt has been almost stationary during the last decade, its size expressed in goods, in which of course it will ultimately have to be paid, shows that the debt more than doubled between 1920 and 1925, and since then has increased another 20 per cent.

The federation is anything but optimistic for the future. In pointing out that the volume of savings has fallen, the statement continues, the position of industry in 1929 was no better than in 1928.

"The year 1930," says the statement, "has opened with important commodity markets still disorganized, and with an accumulation of stocks of raw materials and finished goods which it will take time to liquidate. And, furthermore, unemployment is as high as it ever has been during the last three years."

The present unhealthy condition of industry, the federation points out, is the result of the actions of the successive chancellors of the exchequer, who have made out their budgets without any reference to the taxable capacity of industry.

Industry Needs Unity.

Although this attack is not directed against the present government alone, the federation's summing up might be construed as the ringing of the death knell for the Labor party schemes for heavy social expenditure, such as the unemployment dole, provided that British industry as a whole backs up the federation.

Present forecasts of the forthcoming Labor budget indicate, however, that increased taxation, and not economies, will be applied. Naval disarmament will not save more than $5,000,000 this year, while the reduction in army estimates will only gain $10,000,000. It is proposed to lower the super-income tax level from $10,000 a year to $7,500 a year and increase death duties and the taxes on land and liquor.

SHOWDOWN DUE ON RELIEF BILLS FOR WAR LAMED

Vote to Supplant House Hearings on Veterans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Following four weeks of hearings by the world war veterans' committee, legislation for the relief and compensation of ex-service men is expected within the next fortnight to approach a showdown stage in the lower house of congress.

Excepting the wet and dry issue and possibly the Philippine problem, the question of how best to meet the needs of world war veterans has been the outstanding topic in the house during the present session. Further proof of the interest in this legislation has been shown by the fact that one hundred and ninety-one veterans' bills have been introduced. The committee hearings have been well attended.

Out of the basketful of measures pending, three or four have been singled out during the hearings as having the best chance of passage or at least of reaching the floor for a vote.

Rankin Bill Most Important.

The most far reaching of these is the Rankin bill, introduced on Dec. 19 by Representative John E. Rankin [Dem., Miss.], ranking minority member of the veterans' committee. The same bill was presented to the senate by Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] Jan. 16. This bill would extend the presumptive period on veterans' ailments from Jan. 1, 1925, to Jan. 1, 1930, and in addition would bring constitutional diseases within the presumptive provisions.

The veterans' bureau has estimated the cost of this relief measure at $44,000,000 annually, and that it will grant compensation to 77,744 pending disability cases, most of which are of doubtful validity under the present laws. Included among the claims are 12,305 involving neuropsychiatric diseases, 18,986 tuberculosis and 13,712 circulatory system diseases.

Fear Cry of Expense.

Some house leaders fear the financial consequences of the Rankin bill and its proponents have charged that they plan to have it abandoned during hearings before a joint committee on "the whole problem of veterans' relief." There also is persistent talk of switching to a pension bill. Supporters of the measure, however, insist they will force a roll call in committee and on the floor of the house. Representative Rankin told the house yesterday that his bill, once it came to a vote, "will pass ten to one in both houses."

Chairman Royal C. Johnson [Rep., S. D.] has announced that on Feb. 19, following two more days of hearings confined to members of the house, he will name a subcommittee of the veterans committee to draft an omnibus committee bill to amend the world war veterans' act. It is planned, he said, to have the omnibus measure submitted to the house leaders for approval by March 3 so that on that day it may be brought up and passed under suspension of the rules.

The omnibus bill will include a dozen or more amendments to the veterans' act, now incorporated in separate bills and designed to clear up ambiguities and other features in the act disadvantageous to the veterans.

A third important bill which is almost certain of passage is an amendment to the adjusted compensation act introduced by Chairman W. C. Hawley [Rep., Ore.] of the house ways and means committee.

Aid for Dilatory Applicant.

The Hawley bill would extend the time of application for adjusted compensation from Jan. 2, 1930, to Jan. 2, 1935. Its enactment would validate the 21,000 applications received by the war department since Jan. 2 and subsequent applications up to Jan. 2, 1935. The war department received 85,000 applications during the period just before the expiration date for application and in addition returned 29,000 imperfect applications to veterans for correction.

The only important veterans' bill which thus far has been enacted by congress at this session was the Rogers hospitalization bill appropriating $15,000,000 for hospital construction.

250 ISLES OF FIJI GROWING RICH AS BRITISH COLONY

Happier than Samoan Group Nearby.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUVA, Fiji Islands, Feb. 16.—After spending a few days in the British crown colony of the Fiji islands one can better appreciate the contention of the Samoans that they would much prefer such a status to that of a mandated government under the league of nations. The Fijians, not many years from cannibalism, fire dances and hot stone two-steps, seem a contented lot and are treated by the colonial government as British subjects.

In striking contrast the New Zealand administrators regard the Samoan, who is superior in every particular to the Fijian, as a prize of war. One quickly comes to this conclusion after only a few days on either group of islands.

Colonist Is Poor Colonizer.

Perhaps the reason for this is that the Britisher is a colonizer with long experience in many latitudes, while the New Zealander is himself a colonist. It is this essential difference in the real background of the situation that possibly will lead the league of nations to give ear to the appeal of the Samoans when made.

Most writers deal with Fiji from the standpoint of the days of cannibalism and the dances of the wild men which formed one of the striking exhibits at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893. Only the other day a magazine writer of the gentler sex came to Suva and her first desire was to see a cannibal. After a long search she found the only one extant in all Fiji, and he is 96 years old. He long since has passed up cannibalism, yet his photograph finds a ready sale.

There are about 250 islands in the Fiji group and eighty of these are inhabited. The native population is about stationary, but the Indians, chiefly Hindus, have increased steadily both by immigration and by birth. About 45 per cent of the 60,000 Hindue here are Fiji born. In the principal island of Vitileva, of which Suva is the capital, the Hindus probably have the majority of the population.

Fire Cost Group to U. S.

Strangely enough the United States had a consul in Fiji before the 1849 California gold rush. In 1849 the American consul was celebrating the Fourth of July when his house burned from squibs of firecrackers. Chief Cakobau, who assumed responsibility in order to appease consular wrath, began to court the British, and, being unable to comply with the American demand for $45,000 damages he, offered to cede sovereignty to Great Britain. The first British consul arrived in 1858 and the cession was made the following year. In 1871 Chief Cakoban made a government for the whole Fiji group.

The British record in the Fijis has been good on the whole. From 1860 to 1877 they had been introducing as laborers blacks from the Solomon islands and numerous blacks are still to be seen today. By 1877, however, most of the blacks had been repatriated and Hindus were brought to work the sugar plantations, the cocoanut groves, and cotton fields, and also as domestic servants. Formal Indian immigration under systematized effort ceased in 1916.

Since 1900 there has been a great expansion in the sugar industry. Other products have increased also, and now American interests from Hawaii are experimenting on some of the islands for an extension of the pineapple industry. The British have developed about 300 miles of motor roads.

Hinder U. S. Trade.

American commerce with the islands is really greater than the Fiji customs figures will show. The average tariff on British products is 20 to 35 per cent and foreign countries pay an additional 12½ per cent. What with the subsidies to British ships the handicap of American trade is great. Yet, in spite of that, America does a trade of around $642,000 a year with Fiji and takes therefrom an annual amount of $1,824,000 in copra.

Owing to the fact that large American motor concerns have factories in Canada, the American trade is really larger than the British figures show, for these items are listed as Canadian commerce and obtain the preferential tariff rate. Therefore, it happens that there are about 1,400 motor cars in Fiji now, chiefly American.

In traveling about the islands one finds public schools everywhere, and apparently most of the Fijians and Indians can read and write English, and there are schools on most of the plantations.

Mineral oils lead in American imports directly to Fiji, being valued in 1929 at $230,000. Hardware comes to $46,000, hardwood $57,000, motor cars $40,000, agricultural machinery $10,000, cane knives and like cutlery $16,000, and miscellaneous items, including certain lumber and timber, $46,000.

Harvey Resident, 80, Dies in Fire After Saving Wife

William Richardson, 80 years old, was suffocated yesterday in a fire that wrecked his home at 181 East 151st street, Harvey. Awakened by smoke at 6:30 a. m., Richardson roused his wife, Anna, 72 years old, and assisted her outside. He turned back within, supposedly to retrieve his insurance papers, and was overcome on the bathroom floor where his body was found by firemen.

"Give me liberty to know, to utter and to argue freely according to my conscience, above all other liberties."
—Milton.

TO DESTROY LIBERTY.

The attack in the senate Friday upon the Supreme court was made by gentlemen who think they are progressives, but the views expressed are as old as the republic and as moth eaten as any fallacy in our political history. Senator Glenn said the other day that the vital issues the nation confronts at this time are the same as those which the nation dealt with on the threshold of its life, and Messrs. Norris, Dill, and Brookhart illustrated the truth of his assertion. In the beginning there was a clamorous minority that wanted the congress to be supreme and other branches of the government subject to its fluctuating moods, passions, and political expediencies. But the farseeing statesmanship of the founders was not deceived by that fallacy and the sound judgment of the people then and in the years since has repudiated it.

It is a sardonic aspect of this recrudescence that it is revived in the name of liberty by political and economic quacks who are champions of the greatest attempt to establish a gigantic, centralized government tyranny over the people that our history has known. But, apart from that irony, we have only to revert to the wisdom of the fathers of American liberty to find all the ammunition reason and political foresight require to blow the time worn fallacy revived by the erratics out of the water. Senator Vandenberg, replying to them, only restated what Madison and the greatest of our statesmen have said of their proposition when he asserted that to accept it would be to destroy our constitutional system.

"It [the constitution] will simply mean," he said, "whatever each sequent, transient majority in congress wants it to mean, and when it takes on that transient character, it ceases to be the great charter we have had for 140 years in all its solemnity and stability." It will simply mean, we would add, that, in place of the protection which well settled and experience proved principles give to the free citizen, we shall find ourselves at the mercy of any half baked notion, any quack remedy, any legislative concoction which the passion or bigotry of a passing cabal in congress devises for the nation.

This is offered to us as progress, whereas it is the worst reaction. It is offered us in the name of liberty, whereas it is the worst and most irresponsible device of oppression. As the great French philosopher Montesquieu said, "There is no liberty if the power of judgment be not separated from the legislative and executive powers."

We have only to look at the existing situation in congress to get the full force of the objection to the subordination of the judical branch of government to the legislative. It is significant that the proposal comes from a handful of men representing, or we trust misrepresenting, a small minority of the people of the United States. Because of the system which gives each state two senators regardless of its population, and because of a temporary balance of power in the senate between the two great parties representing the mass of the people, this handful is enjoying a power in one branch of the congress out of all proportion to the importance of their states in the Union and their voting strength. Give this temporary minority the authority to overrule the decisions of the supreme court, by political log rolling and unscrupulous combination, and they can wipe out the fundamental principles of the republic and fix upon the nation any law or regulation which their erratic and shallow impulses suggest. This is to reduce our political system to the absurd and abolish what remains of our liberty.

UNDESIRABLE LAWSUITS.

There are certain forms of action at law which ought to be abolished or at least sharply restricted. One of these is the suit for alienating affections, which in our opinion should be abolished. Another is the suit for breach of promise, which ought to be restricted.

A suit for obtaining money for the loss of affection is a palpable fraud. Affection is free or it is nothing. It is not to be forced or bought and therefore its loss is not to be compensated in money. Love and money represent incommensurable or uncomparable values. Such a suit can only be the resort of personal resentment, of the desire for revenge, or of the desire for money. When it arises from the breaking up of a home, proved material damages might be provided for in some appropriate form of action to be created in law or equity, but the moral or sentimental elements are incommensurable in terms of money penalty. The present form of action is an open invitation to blackmail under the protection of the law and it stultifies moral values and is inconsistent with public policy.

Breach of promise suits should be restricted to proved material losses. If a litigant has been put to the expense of a trousseau or, in expectation of the fulfillment of the promise, has made any proper expenditure or financial commitment he or she would not otherwise have made, or given up gainful employment, or put himself or herself at any material disadvantage measurable in terms of money, compensation may be fixed and enforced by legal action. A wrong like that charged in the suit of the young screen actress Salazar involves injuries of a material character in injuries to professional success, public reputation, loss of time and opportunity for employment. Such injuries are measurable in terms of money, but in most cases exemplary damages merely encourage extortion or blackmail. In this instance recovery is sought in an action for breach of prenuptial contract, not in breach of promise of marriage. The moral values involved, such as injured pride or social prestige, an action in court cannot reach. The person most severely injured in this respect is the person least willing to seek a money salve for such injury or submit to the publicity involved. It is the person who is least sensitive and least injured who will resort to law in such cases. If breach of promise suits are deterrents to faithlessness, the argument is heavily offset by the evils inherent in them.

"INTERESTING LETTERS."

The "Interesting Letters" department is a daily reminder of the world-wide spread of American enterprise. Letters from Iceland and Madagascar, from the south seas, South Africa, from remote regions dotting the globe. They tell a continuous story of the spread of American influence and it is a story we at home ought to know better than we do. We have been so long concentrated on our home affairs in this amazing land of ours that we do not realize what Americans are doing round the world. Now and then we read the reports of the secretary of commerce on the growth of our foreign trade. But statistics are cold for most of us. The "Interesting Letters" tell a human story of far spreading energies and influences.

At this time the story has a special significance, for in London our representatives are negotiating upon our naval policy, and it is the navy that is the guardian of the world-wide commerce which American genius is developing throughout the world. It is the navy which must watch upon the great thoroughfares of the sea over the ships that carry our trade. It is the navy which bears the Stars and Stripes over the horizon to distant ports and markets, our flag and its reminder of America's strength and dignity. It is well for us to think now what the navy has meant to America's past, what it means to America's present, what it means for America's future. No great trading people, since the Phœnician galleys pierced the darkness beyond the Pillars of Hercules up to our own great days, has had a great commerce without a great navy to defend it. If we are regardful either of the lessons of the past or the promise of the future we will not sacrifice the American navy.

NAVAL PARITY.

When the term "naval parity" began to be used in public discussion, official and unofficial, of the problems of naval adjustment between Great Britain and the United States, THE TRIBUNE pointed out that it ought not to be used to reconcile the American public to concessions they would not approve in a realistic test of naval power. We think the American people understand the term to mean equality of naval power. If it is interpreted to mean merely equality of naval ships, it does not mean equality of power between the United States and the British empire, but inferiority of naval power in the United States.

We concede that real naval parity or equality in the essential elements of naval power is not at this time politically practicable. The advantages which Great Britain possesses in the world's greatest system of bases and in the world's greatest merchant marine cannot be canceled or fully offset by any politically practicable agreement between our respective governments. But it does not follow that the term naval parity should be permitted to conceal these disadvantages or reconcile the American people to terms they need not accept and would only approve through a misunderstanding of the term. It does not follow that, because actual naval parity is at this time unattainable, our government is justified in not demanding that our negotiations with Britain take these disadvantages fully into account and offset them as far as practicable.

So far as the censorship at London permits us to know there has been no serious consideration of these fundamental factors of naval parity. On the contrary, we have Secretary Stimson talking of parity as if juggling over a battleship or two or a handful of light cruisers were going to bring it about. We do not suggest that he is willfully misleading us. But he is certainly using the term naval parity in a sense which the American public should realize does not mean what they assume it to mean—equality of naval power. The haggling of the British government over a few ships represents not an effort to bring about a nice adjustment or equality of power but a hard driving bargaining to keep our margin of inferiority where it is or increase it. The British prime minister, addressing our senate, said: "Parity—take it, overflowing and without measure." But not a drop has been permitted to overflow yet.

Editorial of the Day

"JIM HAM" FOR SENATOR.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger.]

For senator from Illinois, ex-Senator James Hamilton Lewis. It is "Jim Ham" himself emerging from political retirement and announcing his candidacy for the Democratic nomination. His reappearance further enlivens a political situation that was already offering a picturesque contest for the Republican nomination between Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, now congressman-at-large, and Senator Charles S. Deneen. Other states may find it well-nigh impossible to crowd Illinois out of the political spotlight this year. What other can offer attractions comparable with Mr. Deneen's cleverness, Mrs. McCormick's ability to smash precedents, and "Jim Ham" Lewis' luxuriant pink whiskers?

"Jim Ham's" announcement is as individual as his justly famous facial adornment. He "accepted" the invitation to be a candidate, against his own inclinations, because "the material necessities of life" force him to take such action. After tossing his hat into the ring he followed it with suggestions for a platform generously denouncing the Republicans and a flat characterization of prohibition as "national tyranny." But "Jim Ham's" picturesqueness rather than such a platform may be his chief asset, if he emerges from the primary as the opponent of Mrs. McCormick or Mr. Deneen.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THIS WEEK WE HAVE WITH US MR. G. WASHINGTON—

yessir, his birthday comes Saturday. It's a perfectly good time for us to sit down and do a little thinking about George. About all that most of us know about Mr. Washington is that he was first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen. (Stamp, stamp, stamp!) Also he chopped down a cherry tree and said, "Popper, I cannot tell a lie; I did it with my little hatchet." Which never happened; but, gosh, we love to think it did. Not that it ever helped us not to tell lies, for we go around fondly believing the story and lying like hoss-thieves.

But this week we ought to look George up and find out some real things about him. We'd find out the grandest thing about George was that while he wasn't a superman, and never claimed to be that, when he got his teeth in a thing he held on like a bulldog. He never knew when he was licked. With a ragged army, with no help from congress or the people generally, with the soldiers getting up and walking out on the war whenever they felt that way about it, old George never faltered for a moment. He simply took what he had and did the best he could.

That's the big lesson in G. Washington's life, brothers and sisters. He didn't sit down and say, "My soldiers are bums; I can't even let visitors into my camp because those birds haven't got on any pants? We haven't guns, we haven't powder, we haven't blankets, we haven't anything. You can take this lousy army an' go to hell with it. I'm going back to my old Virginny home." Not George. He simply said: "We're so rotten they won't be expecting anything out of this gang for the next twenty years. Maybe a little surprise party would go over great."

So George looked around for a nice place and picked out the Hessian outfit at Trenton. He gathered up his comical army, crossed the Delaware in the midst of the worst storm of the winter and landed right in the middle of those Hessians all sprawled out. With the Hessians underneath.

And then on through all the dark, gloomy years that followed George was just the same. Running when he had to run, but turning and taking savage bites out of the British when he saw the chance. Get close to George Washington, brothers and sisters; the closer you get the more good it will do you.

ME AN' JOSEPH AN' PHARAOH.

. . . Then Pharaoh sent and called Joseph, and they brought him hastily out of the dungeon: and he shaved himself, and changed his raiment, and came in unto Pharaoh.—Genesis xli., 14.

For no particular reason, except that it hands me a grin,
I'm minded of once when the Biblical birds and I

It started with one of the other corporals' getting paid at Gouge
And me (the sub-mattoid I am) going with him for vin rouge;
"Non sum qualis eram"—and I never could stand to drink—
I remember dipping a Frenchman's beard in the company clerk's damn ink;
"Am I not a man and a brother?" says I to the sergeant of the guard;
I don't know what he hit me with, but he certainly socked me hard.
Sober and cold we met the gris dawn and stood before the Old Man (That's the Colonel commanding the regiment) and this is how he began:
"You disgraced yourselves so perfectly that you're fined a full month's pay.
You're a worse disgrace the way you look now.
Go back to your billets and stay—
Police yourselves so you won't be likely to poison
the food—and me—
And attach yourselves to the officers' mess . . .
for thirty days' K. P.!"

For no particular reason, except that it hands me

THE SOLICITOR.

YOU CERTAINLY have to hand it to the Prince of Wales. You can't beat that boy! Columns and columns of submarines and cruisers and battleships in the newspapers and what Japan will do and what Italy will do, and so on and so on from the naval conference in London. And then we read: "The Prince of Wales is in a camp in the Ziwani swamp, an isolated district in the heart of Africa. The nearest railroad station is a hundred miles away, but there is only one train a week." Yessir, the Prince is one wise lad.

PEOPLE talk a lot about things of which they know nothing. But we heard one of them brought up with a round turn yesterday morning on a north side bus. He was saying very loudly, "Hughes should have been turned down from that chief justice job for the part he took in the Muscle Shoals business." "All right," said the man sitting next to him, "you know so much, now tell me what is a Muscle Shoal?" Well, that was a hard question to answer. Suppose somebody suddenly walked up to you and said, "What is a Muscle Shoal?" What to say?

LAGNIAPPE.

OH, A LITTLE cold Saturday; mayhap this morning likewise, but probably not. We had a statement from our private groundhog that is remaining under cover in Lincoln park that the weather may slip now and then, but that spring is just around the corner, and first robins are being reported all over the place.

AND TWO of our best dog books say that a puppy should have a little port wine now and then. But the 18th amendment! We had a bottle of rare old port given us the other day. And we couldn't give our poor little Scallyham, Thomas Atkins, a single drop. There was the law! And it was such good port, too, and now it's all gone. Too bad, too bad!

HOW TO STOP BELCHING.

THE gas brought up by belching is composed principally of atmospheric air and of intestinal gases. Gases secreted in the stomach from the blood make up a portion of the mixture. Those resulting from fermentation of the stomach contents are small in quantity and unimportant. It follows that remedies taken to prevent stomach indigestion and fermentation are founded on a false theory and are generally useless and sometimes are worse than that.

In the process of chewing and swallowing some air is carried down with the food. This is especially true with bottle fed babies. The mother who holds her baby upright on her shoulder and chest and gently pats his back after he has finished with his bottle does the right thing, although she may not know the reason.

Adults who swallow air generally do so because of some irritation near the diaphragm. The discomfort causes air to be swallowed toward the stomach or into it and there to be belched back. This is the explanation of nervous belching, belching due to nervous indigestion, and some of that due to other forms of indigestion.

An important type of belching is that due to reverse peristalsis. In this the gases belched come from the intestinal tract. This is the form of belching caused by gallstones, infection of the gall bladder, adhesions, in some cases of chronic appendicitis, spastic colitis, mucous colitis, and chronic constipation. To take dyspepsia tablets or medicines to prevent stomach fermentation for this kind of belching is useless and yet it is in just this type of belching that most of the "medicines to bring up the gas" are taken. As a matter of fact, bringing up the gas is just exactly the wrong thing to do. Relief comes when peristalsis starts in the right direction. Anything that tends to keep it going upward or in the wrong direction is harmful.

The proper method of handling this type of belching is to locate the condition which causes it and to treat that. Rarely is this underlying condition in the stomach itself.

There is considerable difference of opinion as to whether gases are excreted from the blood into the stomach, but the question is not one of much practical importance. Effort to prevent formation of gas by fermentative dyspepsia should be abandoned. There is no such disorder. The stomach contents are acid and fermentation does not progress in acid media. Food is in the stomach but a short time. All in all, gas formation in the stomach itself is slight. It may amount to something in old alcoholics with chronic alcoholic gastritis and distended stomachs, but that is about the limit of possibilities in that direction.

OPERATION FOR GOITER.

Mrs. F. A. writes: Is a goiter operation a serious one? How much does it cost?

REPLY:

It is.

There is no price established either by law or custom. That is a matter of agreement between patient and physician.

IT IS BATH ITCH.

Mrs. W. E. C. writes: As to winter itch, may I pass on my experience? As an arthritic, I have a dry skin and, at the same time, hot baths are comforting. I found it was soap that caused the discomfort. To the faucet on my tub I attached a simple rubber tubing spray. I can now use all the pure soap I wish, but always I wash it all off with the spray.

REPLY:

Your trouble is bath itch, a kinsman, but not winter itch.

PARROT MAY BE SAFE.

L. E. writes: I have owned a parrot for several years. I am married and have several children. I keep the bird and his cage well cleaned. Is there any danger?

REPLY.

If your parrot is healthy, and has been in your household for a long time, and there has been no exposure to any sick parrot, you and your family are not in danger.

DIET FOR BAY WINDOWS.

C. P. R. writes: In your recent article entitled "A Diet for Bay Windows," two fresh vegetables are mentioned for luncheon and dinner. Does this mean raw or cooked, or vegetables fresh from the garden cooked, or would potatoes, carrots, or onions, or any such from the cellar be acceptable?

REPLY.

As a rule, vegetables should be eaten cooked. Vegetables from the cellar are acceptable.

The preference for fresh, raw vegetables applies to dieting against scurvy, swollen gums and tooth decay.

THE NEWS.—The latest rebel advices state that Sherman has entirely severed both telegraph and railroad communications between Charleston and Richmond, and that his cavalry advance is at Florence on the North Carolina border, operating toward Raleigh. Howard's splendid corps won new laurels on the march, pushing their way through 40 miles of continuous and almost impassable swamps and forcing back Hardee's troops at every step.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The general assembly adjourned sine die. The senate passed a resolution highly complimentary to its presiding officer, Lieut. Gov. Bross.

NEW YORK.—A confederate agent named Grotio committed suicide while officers were attempting to arrest him.

CAIRO.—The rebel Gen. Price is reported to have gone to Mexico on an important confidential mission under secret orders. Gen. Kirby Smith says that reports of Price's sickness and death are all untrue. The New Orleans Delta of recent date says it has authoritative information which it considers places the evacuation of Mobile beyond doubt. The evacuation was begun as early as the 14th of January, and all the supplies and heavy siege artillery were taken to Selma.

CHICAGO.—At the dedication of the Baptist church in Evanston yesterday the Rev. W. W. Everts of the First Baptist church of Chicago preached the sermon. He was assisted by Dr. O. H. Tiffany of Grace Methodist church of Chicago, the Rev. G. L. Wrenn of the North Star mission, and the Rev. Mr. Raymond of the Evanston Methodist church.

LONDON.—Kimberley relieved, Gen. Buller again moving in the direction of Ladysmith, the British retirement from Rensburg to Arundel, and Col. Plummer repulsed at Ramoutsa—these are the principal items of news that have reached London from the Boer war fronts in the last twenty-four hours. Gen. French relieved Kimberley with 7,000 or 8,000 cavalry with which he pushed north from the Riet river after he had seized Dekil's Drift on Feb. 12. He made a sudden attack on the Boers south of Kimberley and evidently took them by surprise. At any rate, they were completely routed, according to Lord Roberts' reports. While French was relieving Kimberley, Roberts advanced to Jacobsdal, which he recaptured. A dispatch from Jacobsdal says that Gen. Cronje is in full retreat toward Bloemfontein, with Gen. Kelly-Kenny harassing his rear.

CHICAGO.—Prof. Cox of the weather bureau predicts a temperature of 7 to 8 degrees below zero for this morning. The lowest yesterday was 5 below at 8 a. m. and the highest 2 above at 3 p. m.

CHICAGO.—Miss Margaret Griffiths, daughter of John Griffiths, wealthy contractor, 3806 Michigan avenue, told her parents on Thursday she was going out to make a call. When she returned an hour later she was the bride of John N. Drummond of St. Louis, connected with tobacco interests, but she did not tell her secret and left that night on a wedding trip to New York. The objection of the family was that the couple had known each other but a short time.

NEW YORK.—Roland B. Molineux was sentenced by Recorder Goff for the murder of Mrs. Kate J. Adams and was at once taken to Sing Sing. He was accompanied to the prison by his father, Gen. Edward L. Molineux, and his brother, Leslie.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

LONDON.—The allies' note to Holland, replying to the Dutch government's refusal to surrender the former German emperor for trial, is made public. It renews in most emphatic terms the demand that the ex-kaiser be given over to the allied powers and condemns Wilhelm as the man whose policy and personal actions have cost the lives of 10,000,000 other men.

LONDON.—It is authoritatively stated that the reply of Premiers Millerand and Lloyd George to President Wilson's Adriatic note has been drafted but not dispatched and will receive further consideration before it is sent.

LIMA, Peru.—Walter Pack, Chicago flyer; A. Alta, another American, and two Peruvian aviators were killed when a plane piloted by Pack collided with that occupied by the two Peruvians. Pack, who served in the American army aviation corps during the world war, was working for the Peruvian government.

CHICAGO.—After hearing the confession of James Vinci, driver of the car from which were fired the shotgun slugs that killed "Moss" Enright, the grand jury voted indictments for murder against "Big Tim" Murphy, Mike Carozzo, president of the street sweepers' union, Vincenzo Cosmano, and Vinci.

CHICAGO.—Miss Lillian Mars, daughter of Mrs. George H. Mars of Kenilworth, and Maurice S. Prenatt of Beverly Hills were married on Feb. 14 at the Church of the Holy Comforter in Kenilworth. Miss Marjorie Erma Weymouth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weymouth of 417 North Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, and William Philip Oliver, son of John H. Oliver of Clinton, Ia., were married on Feb. 14.

TAXES TWICE A YEAR.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—When our present tax tangle is over and normal conditions obtain, why not introduce the system of paying taxes in two installments? The wealthy could, of course, pay it all at once, but to many it would, no doubt, be a great boon to pay in installments. Many good things are paid for in that way. Mr. Taxpayer would not feel the burden so much. It would be a boon to the city. It would help to eliminate a lot of interest on tax anticipation warrants. It might even be possible to make tax bills for different sections of the city payable in different months, so as to insure a current flow of income for current expenses and eliminate all interest. In farming communities, where the harvest comes once a year, it is quite natural that taxes would come likewise. In the city conditions are different. It may not be a good thing for our politicians to see this mountain of tax money dumped into our city treasury at one time. The temptation may be too great. He gets to look upon tax money as "easy money," while a lot of it, at least, comes from honest sweat.

P. A. KITTILSBY.

188 INDICTMENTS.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—The administration at Washington has at last accomplished a feat to which we assume it will point with great pride, the arrest of 188 men, constituting a national ring of alleged bootleggers.

In the indictment of the 188 alleged members of a bootleg ring the federal government is striking, not at the cause, but at the effect of the evil. The real criminal who should be punished with fitting severity is the representative American citizen who takes a drink whenever he can get it, but as we have not as yet constructed sufficient jails to accommodate one hundred million citizens in the comfort to which they have been accustomed the much heralded "noble experiment" should be suspended during the period of construction of adequate jail facilities.

If, therefore, our present administration is successful in the conviction of each of the 188 men now indicted it is merely making these unfortunates pay the price of others' lawlessness, a sacrifice to an experiment, noble in its inception, brutal and ridiculous in its present application. After it is all over, what of it? Nothing!

JAMES R. HANRAHAN.

DRY FINLAND.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 7.—According to reports from Finland, which was the first nation in the history of the world to go dry, the legislative body, which is similar to our congress, is the driest in the entire history of the nation. Nor is that strange. Prohibition is better economically, socially, and morally than any system by which alcohol is legally obtainable by those who wish it. Consequently, as experience proves its benefits, the judgment of the people elects dry legislators.

The history of the United States congress has been the same. The present congress is the driest ever. The vote in the senate when the amendment was submitted stood 65 to 20. Senator Sheppard recently stated that there would be but six votes for the repeal of the amendment if it were to come to a vote in the present senate.

GEORGE C. PARSONS.

MORE SPEAKEASIES THAN SALOONS.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—On Racine avenue, in a radius of fifteen blocks, there used to be nine soft drink parlors. Now, in that same radius, there are twenty-seven since the present state's attorney went into office. Why is it that there are more of these places now than before so-called prohibition and worse places than any saloon was?

READER.

THE DIFFERENCE.

Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., Feb. 14.—Please permit me to make a primer class reply to J. A. Alford, who wants to know why an officer who shoots a bank robber is a hero in the eyes of THE TRIBUNE, while an officer who shoots a bootlegger is a murderer. The answer, my dear pupil, is that it isn't so. Officers don't make a habit of going out into the street and shooting passers-by in the back when they don't stop on order, simply on the suspicion that they may be bank robbers. Prohibition officers have shot many people on the theory that they were bootleggers, when, as a matter of fact, they weren't any such thing, and the federal government has taken these deluded officers away from the jurisdiction of state courts, defended them in federal [illegible] and kept them on the pay roll. Do you think THE TRIBUNE would praise as a hero an officer who carelessly shot a bank's president instead of the bank robber?

J. P. GRUVEL.

THE CHARTER OF LONDON.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Mr. Henry announes a remarkable archæological discovery, being no less than the original charter of the city of London, a strip of parchment in Anglo-Saxon signed by William the Conqueror." This is only exceeded in antiquarian importance by Mr. Pickwick's discovery of the Cobham stone. But I venture to surmise that the document was not Anglo-Saxon, but in British (I. e., Celtic), in compliment to London's origin. William's scribes were doubtless learned in Gaelic as in Anglo-Saxon. And "signed by William the Conqueror." That is conclusive, for every schoolboy knows that kings were in the habit of signing their royal grants on notes of hand with fountain pens. I learn that the University of Chicago has applied to the lord mayor for an exact reproduction of this ancient London charter in Anglo-Saxon, with an autograph signature of H. M. William I., and is having an Anglo-Saxon chair built for it, of oak and plate glass, similar to that in which the crown jewels repose in the tower of London.

JOHN T. BRAKELL.

FOR PORTO RICAN RELIEF.

Princeton, Ill., Feb. 13.—Theodore Roosevelt, governor of Porto Rico, says the children of that country are starving to death. He has asked the school children of this country to bring their pennies to school and help save the lives of the children of Porto Rico. Can this be true or is it just politics and bunk? Why not take some of the $500,000,000 that the farm board has and ship some of our surplus food grains to these starving children. President Hoover says raise less food grains and take less in price, as there is no place to store it. We do not need to store it up and let the people under our own flag starve. What this country needs just now is a man with the courage and honest purposes of Abraham Lincoln. It will not be many years before our children will be in the same condition as the children of Porto Rico if we keep conditions go on as they are at the present time.

CHARLES CROWDOVER.

CHARITY.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Glancing through THE TRIBUNE today, I noticed the article pertaining to rebuilding of the "Orphans of the Storm" dog refuge.

According to reports in the paper the approximate cost of rebuilding the haven will be $10,000. I myself am a great lover of canines and can appreciate the effort Mrs. McLaughlin is extending in providing these canine waifs with a home, but with thousands upon thousands of men and women out of work, children undernourished, starving, and without sufficient clothing, it seems that every one's duty is to help his or her fellow men.

It seems a pity that $10,000 should be spent to provide dogs with a home when there are plenty of humans without shelter, food, and clothing.

TALE OF THE CAPTAIN'S NOSE.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—To the many benign souls who, though not citizens of Chicago, offer unsolicited advice to our city in its financial difficulty, the following story is respectfully dedicated. An old sea captain was being taunted by a young prig because of the crimson hue of the old tar's nose. The young fool inquired the cause and received the following information:

"Pride, my son, pride. My nose blushes with pride, for in the sixty years of its mundane existence it has never been poked into other people's business."

THEODORE KOHL.

BRIGHT LIGHTS.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Late one evening while driving west on North avenue, I encountered some severe holes in the street, and turned on my bright light, a habit I have had, under similar circumstances, for over a year. Shortly afterwards I was ordered to stop by a policeman and given a ticket.

It occurred to me that, if our policemen were put to work curbing crime and bent their efforts toward stopping the numerous holdups, bombings and burglaries instead of tagging motorists who like to see where they are driving at a late hour on a poorly paved street, the city would be far more benefited.

Liberty as usual delivered more than it promised!

For 1930, Liberty guarantees an average of 2,250,000 net paid circulation. This figure was reached back in 1929.

Liberty's growth continues. Every issue brings us closer to the goal we have set for ourselves: the largest magazine circulation in the world.

Editorial content alone wields the power that persuades nearly two and one-half millions of persons to buy Liberty every week. Liberty's millions have come voluntarily—without subscription methods, without solicitors, special rates, clubs, or premiums. Our circulation remains 99% newsdealer.

Put this virile advertising force to work for you now: Greatest circulation growth of any magazine . . . Strongest concentration in major markets . . . Lowest advertising cost among major magazines . . . Biggest newsdealer sale of any magazine.

We estimate that in 1935 Liberty will have the largest magazine circulation in the world . . .

New Modes Demand New Figures with Graceful Curves

by Clotilde Pratt

After sitting in at a fashion parade a small group of us decided that the only way we could cling to our determination not to join the new dress movement was to die and be buried in a last season's model. You can't live and face it out. Last year's abbreviated lengths and straight silhouettes look like nothing on earth but last year's style wedged in with a this season's showing.

Style, however, not being my domain except as it affects the figure, it is the figure then that shall have to be attacked from the new style angle.

As hinted before, the straight lines were the trusted friends of the plump inclined. They'd even stow away a culprit five or ten pounds. They did all kinds of friendly things to waistlines. But try and get the new belted frock to show any such sympathy or aid! You must bring the "figger" into them or they'll have nothing to do with exploiting your charms. They won't flatten your waist line an inch for you. "That's up to you," they high hat you as they turn loving glances in the direction of the young sapling buds and still svelte early matrons.

The new figure wanted for 1930 smart frocking IS a new figure, and don't you forget that little item. It's not, thank heavens, one of those dieted down to wattle chinned barrenness. Even the bud has to bring a fair quota of "padding" to her bones or she loses caste. Just a fair quota, however. Neither can she be a heavy armful for the cut-in boys.

The older ones cannot look crowded, which is the inclination of a super-curved anatomy in the new frock. There must be the same old ease and grace of movement, the corsetless straight lines permitted.

This new figure often can be better accomplished by exercise than by dieting. Diet, of course, will be needed for the heavy. And reasonable attention to keeping the appetite curbed must be given by those inclined that way. But what is most needed are inches off the waist line, the diaphragm, and the hip line. And your old time bending exercises ought to be dragged out now and put to work morning and eve for a month or two.

The smooth fitting hip yoke of this pretty frock tapers to the left side, almost reaching the waistline, and creates a becoming diagonal line both in the front and back. The attached circular skirt is shaped so as to keep the fulness low down, while the one sided bolero is a small detail. Crêpe satin, featherweight tweed, Canton crêpe, and faille silk crêpe are suitable materials.

The pattern, 2851, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 40 inch material with ⅜ yard of 27 inch material for the panel facing.

In the March of Life Many Friendships Fall by the Wayside

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Why not a word, some time, about broken friendships among one's own sex? In so many cases they break for no apparent reason, or through the most trivial misunderstandings. It seems awful—with life so short! How about a sermon on it? FORSAKEN FRIEND."

What can be said about those friendships that break for no apparent reason except that they are oftener shaped by circumstances than through the fault of any two involved? Life arranges breaches in lives. A girl marries and her girl friend of years standing may marry, too. Immediately life takes a hand in things. The interests of each are automatically changed. Children come on the scene, further absorbing individual time and interest. The husbands' tastes and pursuits in each instance are of paramount importance.

Maybe distance widens the breach in the old time friendship. People change with their new interests and the passing years. The more sentimental of two friends tries hard to keep up the old relationship. If she has found no new outlet for her emotions she is in danger of wrapping herself in a quite unnecessary melancholy over the departed friend.

It does not always happen, of course. Some women who have grown up together, shared their schooling and young day pleasures together, never lose sympathetic touch, no matter what distances and responsibilities may separate them. But these have an inordinate talent for lasting friendship which is not common among our sex, chiefly, I suppose because we women are born to give more to love and loved ones than to the thing called "love without wings," meaning friendship.

Confronted with the circumstances of a lost friendship there is no use putting on heavy mourning. It's life and recatching the spirit, the game or the friendships of irresponsible youth are not favors allotted many of us. However, life around us is always ripe with possibilities for absorbing interest and friendships, too.

For the other kind of breaches that are due to misunderstandings—again we have the toll that is exacted from maturer years and changed viewpoints and new interests. Uusually the misunderstandings are based on one of these causes, although at the moment they may seem to wear a weaker human face. Understanding, however, that life does all of these things to people, feelings of deep friendship still may be preserved without the pettiness we are all capable of exhibiting because friendship does not make the same old gestures.

Little Flat Fur Vests Finish Sports Suits

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Time was when furs were really worn for warmth, but that was so long ago that it is not fashionable to remember it. Nowadays, fur lavishly bedecks even the most sweltering summer, calling to mind the old wisecrack: "Summer furs and some are not." But, joking aside, the European summer calls for furs and two or three light fur garments are a practical as well as a fashionable necessity to every chic Parisienne's warm weather wardrobe. In France, the northern beaches may treacherously turn chill in mid-August and the southern temperature cools off very perceptibly after sundown. Then, there are those mountain excursions in the motor and those seagoing expeditions in the motorboat, when one is very glad to slip into a fur wrap of some sort.

Chanel prepares sports and country suits for all emergencies by equipping them with little extra flat fur vests. They may be sleeveless or have sleeves of soft antelope, or yet again fur sleeves, though these are less practical. I saw this one on one of the smartest girls in Cannes. It was sleeveless and made of moleskin, worked in diamond design and dyed blue to match the blue in a tweed skirt and flaring hip length jacket. It had a little rounded collar that would stand up or lie down at his wearer's command. Its zipper fastening hid under the fur in front. You had to look twice to see how the girl got into it.

Heim makes extra coats, vests, or jackets to wear with many of his sports ensembles. There'll be a skirt, jumper and jacket of tweed, a long tweed coat and a coat of flat fur lined with tweed that can be worn instead of the tweed coat if the weather vane points that way.

Beige weasel worked in long narrow stripes makes this youthful seven-eighths length coat which would be equally good for town or country wear. It blouses slightly over a buckleless brown leather belt held in place at the natural waistline by passing through slits in the fur front and back. Two of the front stripes are cleverly curved to form the top of pockets. The high collar becomingly frames the face. It is slightly draped in back. In front its two ends tie into a knot and fall carelessly toward the belt. The breadth of this scarf-like collar is amusingly new. Two horizontal stripes of the weasel form a plain cuff finished to the sleeves.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Putting the pop in popcorn is largely a matter of insuring the proper amount of moisture at time of popping, too much or too little moisture resulting in a large proportion of kernels that fail to pop properly, says F. C. Stewart, botanist at the New York experiment station. He has made an extensive study of the factors that effect the popping of popcorn, as well as numerous trials of popcorn varieties.

Failure of popcorn to pop satisfactorily is usually due to the popcorn being too dry, says Mr. Stewart, adding that this condition can be easily remedied by adding a little water.

Storage in an outside shed or on a protected back porch where the air can circulate freely about the corn is regarded as ideal for popcorn during the winter months. Popcorn stored outside in this manner will remain in almost perfect popping condition until the following summer. When stored in the house, popcorn dries out rapidly and soon becomes too dry for good popping. Popcorn needs about 14 per cent moisture for best results, but when stored in a heated room it often drops to 8 per cent or less of moisture.

The pop can be restored to popcorn that has become too dry to pop well simply by placing some of the shelled corn in a fruit jar, adding a little water, sealing the jar with a rubber ring, shaking thoroughly, and allowing the jar to stand unopened for two days, says Mr. Stewart. The amount of water required depends on the dryness of the corn.

For corn that gives very poor popping, perhaps five tablespoonfuls of water to each two pounds of shelled corn will not be too much, it is said. The amount of water can be reduced in proportion to the evident degree of dryness of the corn as shown by the way it pops, but probably not less than two tablespoonfuls for each two pounds of shelled corn should be added to the jar.

Mother Asks Help in Dealing with "Stubborn" Child

by Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A letter contains the following: "Now, please answer me about this situation. My little girl of four and a half years is extremely stubborn. She wants her own way a lot. I don't give it to her, but I can see she feels sick of not being able to get her way.

"Will she outgrow that, or will she grow up with a way (will) of her own? Does training help any in this case?"

This is from an inexperienced mother who is wise enough to doubt her own methods when she sees that they do not work—and so asks for advice.

The stubborn child is a widespread problem. We all know exactly how grownups feel about their stubborn children—nonplussed, bang up against a stone wall. But we don't often find a mother perceiving as cleverly as this mother does how the stubborn child, on his side of the fence, feels.

"I can see she is sick of not being able to get her own way," says the letter. She has gone far in observing that fact. It must make them feel sick. Wouldn't it you, if you couldn't have your own way about this or that because of what seemed to you some one's purely arbitrary objections?

And that's what most of our objections must seem like to little children—just a thwarting of their desires. That is, unless we have done two things in bringing up our children, from the beginning—first, unless we have tied to give them credit for intelligence and appealed to that, and, second, unless we have consistently given them their own way where it hurt neither them nor any one else.

If we have followed these two courses of action with our children, then they won't feel that dogged need to combat thwarting which we call stubbornness.

Lay Corner Stone of Jenny Lind Memorial at St. Ansgarius'

The corner stone of the Jenny Lind memorial, St. Ansgarius' Episcopal church, Maplewood and Thorndale avenues, was laid yesterday afternoon by the Rev. Dr. J. G. Hammarskold, New York, dean of the Scandinavian work of the Episcopal church. The Rev. William Tullberg, pastor of the church, assisted.

The new building is the first unit of a church plant to cost about $75,000. The structure now being erected ultimately will be the parish house, though for a time it will be used as the church. The church is being erected to the memory of Jenny Lind who took a deep interest in its organization while the Swedish singer was in Chicago.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Pig's Knuckles.

It is not so bad to "come a cropper" when it will bring out such a delightful response as I got in the letter quoted below. Almost anybody interested in the subject ought to be grateful for what this letter says, because you may look through the index of a great number of leading cook books and never once find pig's knuckles. Besides this the packers picture a pork shank on the top of a pile of trimmings—knuckles apparently—but do not mention the latter, or not to my knowledge.

But here is the letter: "As one who does not care at all for pig's feet, but who is extremely fond of pig's knuckles, may I come to the help of those accused of being 'ladylike' in their cooking terms. It is perhaps because we are not fond of gristle and bone when jellied that we choose the knuckles, the joint above the foot, which has all the good qualities of the foot and in addition a generous amount of meat.

"I learned of them in Pennsylvania, where in the city market at Scranton a farmer came from Lake Ariel at Christmas time with a butchered pig. Intending to sell it from his wagon in the public market. He found it difficult to dispose of the pig knuckles and recommended them to me. I bought them for 20 cents per pound. Here I have to ask my butcher to order them in advance of the time I want them and I pay 40 to 45 cents a pound.

"I prepare as follows: Singe, scrape, and then scrub with a brush and baking soda. Rinse thoroughly and drop in nearly enough hot water to cover. Bring to a boil slowly, skim carefully all that rises to the surface, then cook gently till the bones drop out. Remove bones, season with salt and pepper. Place in a dish so as to alternate skin and fat and lean meat. Fill the dish full and more. Put a plate on top and the family flat iron on top of the plate. When cold it makes a marbled cold meat of surpassing flavor. The broth makes a gravy which with the addition of a little yellow butter will pass for chicken gravy.

"Probably 'the committee of forty-seven' will all write in. We so seldom catch you napping, but I think any butcher will confirm my statement that feet and knuckles are quite distinct."

I think so because I was indeed napping or wool gathering about the time I wrote about pig's feet and did not expand what I said, but I paid but 20 cents a pound for knuckles not ordered special.

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Rutledge, accompanied by Sim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfill a contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by some men from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede and drive off some of the Rutledge cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots and injures one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged for the injury and pursue him. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house, where he finds Ellen Lawson alone in the house. She hides him when the Moss gang comes to the house inquiring for him and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he has injured her brother. Jim rides on into the town after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Pete Moss. Shear, the town marshal, threatens to arrest him for the attack on Steve Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old trail driver, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterwards Shear kills Doc Brown, who, he claimed, had threatened his life. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little cattle town. Jim goes into the local gambling den and is astonished to find Ellen Lawson there. She tells him she has come to speak to her brother, Steve. Jim rides her to where Steve is sitting in a poker game with Shear, Buck Roe and others. As they reach the table the lights go out, and when the room is again lighted Shear is found crumpled in his chair dead with Jim's knife in him. Ellen's right hand is covered with blood. She had become separated from Jim in the dark and some one jostled her. In putting out her hand for support she had touched the crumpled figure. Jim and Ellen are questioned by Sheriff Maudera, and Jim is arrested.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

THE TRAIL OF THE KILLER.

The jailor let Pendleton into Jim's cell and locked the door on him.

"Tell me the whole story," Pendleton ordered.

Jim gave the facts briefly.

Pendleton nodded. "About the way I heard it. Only I didn't know how you came to be with the girl, an' I hadn't heard a mention of the fellow in the fancy dress being present."

"Did you find out anything about him?"

"Darned little. Sure enough he'd been at the Green Parrot, but he had left before I got there. Several folks remembered him, but he was masked an' they didn't know who he was. Say, boy, that girl of yours, Miss Ellen Lawson—she's a fine girl all right."

Jim flushed. "She's not mine. I hardly know her."

"Just well enough for her to put her arms 'round yore neck," Pendleton said, grinning at him. "Well, all I got to say is, if you don't make her yours, an' you're a fair sample, the crop of young Texans ain't what they used to be when I was high steppin' it. She grades 'way up.'"

"I knew she'd get my message to you," Jim said, dodging any discussion of the question raised.

"She came with that redheaded boy you winged down in the cañon. I could see he was against coming. He acted kinda sulky an' reluctant, but she spoke her li'l piece right out in meeting."

"She's like that," Jim agreed.

"Well, let's get down to brass tacks," Pendleton said, dropping his voice to a whisper. "Who killed Shear?"

"I don't know. It was done in the dark. Nobody could see. I reckon they're sayin' I did it." Jim made the last statement with the rising inflection of a question.

"That's a sticker," said Jim.

"Some say you did. Some ain't so sure. If either Bart or Mart Brown had been in the Longhorn at the time they'd get the credit for it."

"They had motive enough," Jim said reflectively. "Shear had just killed their brother Doc, an' he'd given them a week to light out and leave a prosperous business."

"Prosperous. Hmp! The Green Parrot is a gold mine. If they'd made a forced sale they wouldn't have got a fourth what it was worth. But Shear had put it up to them. They either had to fight or get out. Bet yore boots they had motive a-plenty."

"Were they at the Green Parrot when you got there?"

"Bart was. Mart came in a few minutes later."

"Say where he'd been?"

"I didn't talk with him."

"What kind of fellows are the Browns?" Jim asked.

"Tough nuts."

"I mean, what do they look like? Is one of 'em a kinda tall, slim graceful guy, with a gift of easy gab?"

"That's Mart. You've met him?"

"Light cold gray eyes?"

"Yes, sir."

"I reckon Mart must be my friend Blackbeard."

"Might be," agreed Pendleton. "You can take it for sure that neither Mart nor his brother are the kind to lie down an' then crawl off with their tails between their legs when Shear cracked the whip."

"Are they the kind to come right into the open an' fight it out with him?"

"Well, they would if he crowded 'em to the wall, but I'd say they would prefer to do business another way," the big man drawled. "Shear was a dead shot. It was pretty near suicide to go up against him even-steven. I'd expect the Browns to play for a better break than that."

"This masked ball at the Green Parrot would give them a mighty good break. We'll say they wanted to get at Shear without being recognized by him. One of 'em, Mart probably, rigs up like a pirate. He has a turban pulled down low over his forehead. A patch covers one eye and a false beard all the lower part of his face. He could stroll right up to the marshal without being known. Say he went into the Longhorn to shoot Shear. He asks Ellen Lawson to dance, so he can get up to the other end of the hall kinda casual like an' size things up. Maybe he figured he would move up close an' watch the poker game, the way some other fellows were doing. When he was standing just where he could get Shear good, probably as the marshal was studying his cards, he would go to fannin'. No jury would convict him."

"No," Pendleton agreed, "not after Joe had threatened them and killed their brother Doc."

"But it doesn't happen quite like Mr. Blackbeard expects. The lights go out. That gives him an even better break. He moves toward Shear, bumps into me, feels my knife, takes it, does the job, and lights outa the place. How does that sound to you?"

"He wasn't in the Longhorn then after the candles were lit?"

"No."

"Any evidence he was there when yore lads smoked up?"

"Yes." Jim told him about finding the green felt patch.

"It certainly looks like Mr. Blackbeard did the trick," the cattleman admitted. "Is it yore idea that he shot out the light in the card room?"

"That's a sticker," Jim said. "I don't see how he could have done it without someone in the room seeing who did it."

"That goes for anyone in the room."

"That's so," the young man assented. "And someone fired the shot—either someone in the room or out of it."

"One of yore Circle H lads from the big hall?"

"No. Some guy standing outside the window of the card room."

"What would his reason be for that unless he was in cahoots with Blackbeard? And that's not reasonable. If the two Brown brothers were there they would be in the room together taking an equal chance."

Jim shook his head. "It doesn't exactly dovetail with my theory. Still, I'd like to know if someone was standing out there by the window. It rained most of the day. There must be footprints. Just a chance they are still there. Depends on amount of travel. Would it be too much to ask you to get Dr. Aubrey to go with you an' take measurements or even plaster casts of any prints there may be? I hate to impose on you, but——"

"Forget that, boy. But why Aubrey?"

"He's a friend of my father, and I know that last year he had plaster. He fixed up a busted leg for one of our boys. You'll have to slip up on this so folks won't notice what you're doing."

"That's right. I'll get a wiggle on me right off. Chances are that if any tracks were left on the ground they've been messed up. I'll measure any that are there, but don't count on me to get any plaster cast of 'em."

"We may be barking up the wrong tree. Some one in the game may have killed Shear. Whoever did it was a hard, cold proposition. That seems to let out the two young fellows, Pete Moss and Steve Lawson, though either of the two might have been sore at him. He was winning their money, and Pete had just had a row with him. What's more, both of 'em looked so darned guilty they gave themselves away."

"How do you know one of 'em didn't do it?" Pendleton asked.

"I'd be surprised if either of 'em did. That ace of spades marks the character of the murderer. He is a cool, remorseless devil. These lads are both hotheaded. The Lawson boy boiled up an' tried to shoot me when I had the drop on him. Pete is the same way. No, sir. I can't see either one of 'em in it."

"But you said they looked guilty. Don't forget, young fellow, that theories haven't got a thing to do with this. Someone with a grudge at Joe stuck a knife in him. That's all there is to it."

Good morning!

This movie doesn't tell a pleasant story, but if you don't mind having your feelings harrowed a bit you will find it an intensely interesting study of Russian peasant life. It is directed and played with power and understanding. Also, it is pictorially fascinating, presenting many beautiful photographic shots. I am thinking at the moment of the fields of blowing wheat and the sturdy peasants bending to their work of garnering the grain. Lovely!

This film, made by Russia's first woman director, is—Theodore Dreiser says it—"the Russian equivalent of the American play 'Desire Under the Elms.'" Its idea is to present "an unprejudiced report of the changing morality of Russia," and the story it tells is of an old scalawag of a Russian peasant who desires and takes his son's wife while the latter is away at war. A child is born to the helpless and unhappy girl, and while she is permitted to live with her husband's people they and all the neighbors treat her as an outcast. Ivan comes home. For ending see picture.

There are a number of interesting short subjects on the Cinema's screen this week. One of these introduces you to our book editor, Miss Fanny Butcher, with whom you'll be charmed. There is an art exhibit in the lobby, and here, too, are coffee and cigarets for everybody.

Holding of Autopsies Boon to Science as Public's Ideas Change

Of late years a significant change has been observed in the attitude of the general public toward autopsies, to the vast benefit of medical sicence. That was the view expressed yesterday by Dr. Ludvig Hektoen, first pathologist of the Norwegian-American hospital, at the dedicatory exercises of a new building, at Cortez and Francisco streets. He addressed an overflow audience at the Danish Evangelical Lutheran Trinity church, opposite the hospital.

Where formerly physicians met with the greatest antipathy when they suggested an autopsy, relatives and families of the dead now frequently grant the hospital's request, Dr. Hektoen stated. In 1928, he added, more than 40 per cent of the deaths at the hospital were followed by autopsies, with the consent of the relatives, and much valuable information obtained thereby.

"The autopsy is of such material significance," he declared, "that it may be used as a gauge of hospital efficiency. It replaces speculation with exact knowledge based on observance. In 1896 a Boston physician reported a series of autopsies on persons who died of obscure abdominal complaints, his observations leading to the comparatively simple operative procedure since followed in such cases, which he first named appendicitis. Many lives have been saved and much pain avoided because of the results of his study."

Dr. Hugh S. Cummings of Washington, surgeon general in charge of the public health service of the United States, paid tribute to the racial traits of the Norwegians in Chicago. He said he was especially interested in the high type of hospital care offered at moderate prices.

Margaret Matzenauer Quits Grand Opera for Concerts

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Margaret Matzenauer, for 19 years a leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company, announced today that she will not return to the Metropolitan next season. She appeared at the Metropolitan Wednesday for the last time, singing the rôle of Amneris in "Aida." At her own request, she said, the management made no announcement that it was her farewell performance. She plans to devote her time to concert and oratorio, according to her managers.

U. S. Attorney Johnson Off for Biloxi Vacation

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

THE QUESTION.

Do you enjoy shopping for new clothes?

THE ANSWERS.

Miss Betty Baker, 5722 Winthrop avenue, secretary — I do, for I like new style dresses, so shopping is a pleasure. If I had lots of money I would be buying all the time, except for the hours, plenty of them, for practice on by guitar.

A. E. Nissen, 717 North Dearborn street, membership committee, Chicago Motor club—I sure do. But it has been so long since I had shopped for new clothes that I would enjoy the novelty. The last suit I bought was four years ago last month. Yet I am well dressed and have been earning a good living.

Miss Leona Schiller, 222 West Chicago avenue, student—What woman doesn't? All women need is enough money. Since appearances count so much, we must look our best all the time. But clothes are not the most important thing in my life. There are studies, interest in art, the reading of books.

Harvey A. Pastor, 1039 Hollywood avenue, assistant program director, radio station WCHI — Clothes? I pay a great deal of attention to them. They may not make a man, but they help him to get away with what he's trying to do. However, it seems it is the women who get the greatest kick out of buying clothes.

Miss Margaret Harty, 3218 North Racine avenue, stenographer—Of course I do, especially when I have plenty of money. The styles have changed so in the last few months that it is essential for one to have a complete change of wardrobe, but I can make my own clothes.

Women's Inter-American Group Meets Today in Cuba

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

Dakota Mounds Tell Mandan Indians' Story

Corn Planting Is Held as Sacred Right.

Centuries of Indian lore as revealed in the burying ground of the Mandan Indian tribe of mound dwellers at Sanger, N. D., are being chronicled by Alfred W. Bowers, archeologist of the Logan museum at Beloit college, Beloit, Wis. Relics taken from the site were exhibited yesterday to Frank G. Logan of Chicago, founder of the museum, and Dr. Frederick Starr of Seattle, formerly head of the department of anthropology at the University of Chicago, where Bowers is taking his doctor's degree.

Four or five remaining full blooded members of the tribe, still living in their ancient territory at Sanger, will occupy the attention of another expedition the museum will send to North Dakota in six weeks under the direction of Bowers. One of the group, an old Indian woman named Mrs. Scatter Corn, is, according to Bowers, thirty-fourth in the line of descent in the family of corn sowers, which held a religious significance to the Mandans.

Her life history and that of each of her ancestors in the corn ritual will be written by Bowers, who declares the chronological data thus obtained will provide reliable references, tracing back the history of these aborigines to between 1500 and 1600 A. D. Mrs. Scatter Corn's husband, John Holding Eagle, cannot boast such distinguished ancestry.

One of the interesting discoveries of the first expedition is a portion of a vertebra of a Mandan man, in which is imbedded a flint arrowhead. The fatal wound was inflicted, Bowers declares, on a man of about forty years, by an enemy whose arrow struck with such force that it passed through the abdomen and imbedded itself in the spine of the victim. The vertebra itself is unusually large, all the Mandans being characterized by their great size.

The skull of what is believed to be the Mandan victim, found in the same grave, contains a full set of teeth still pearly and sound, although their owner has been dead more than 400 years.

Excavation has shown that the Mandans dug their homes several feet deep and twenty-five or more feet in diameter, then arched the roof over with mud, timber, and sod. Two or three families lived in each mound. Scores of the mounds comprised a village, which was also fortified with a wall.

THE STAGE

THE Theater guild apparently doesn't believe in proverbs. "Never change horses in midstream" means nothing to this group of dramatic progressives. Therefore, next Monday night will bring an entirely new [to Chicago] "Strange Interlude" company into the Blackstone for the continuance of the as yet unslackened run of O'Neill's double headed psychologue.

The present company will move to Philadelphia to fulfill a contract. Another organization which has been interluding strangely in Los Angeles, San Francisco, St. Louis, Detroit and Washington will arrive at the Blackstone to maintain business as usual.

The news that Elizabeth Risdon is the Nina of the new cast will arouse a cheer of welcome along Michigan avenue. She is an excellent actress with a following here. Incidentally, she is at home among the complexes, for her last visit was in Sidney Howard's "The Silver Cord," a drama giving Freudian variations to the mammy songs.

Frank Conroy is to be the "Dr. Darrell," now played by Glenn Anders. George Gaul will follow Tom Powers and Ralph Morgan in the rôle of "Charlie Marsden," the synthetic uncle of the story. Blaine Cordner is cast for simple minded "Sam," and Erskine Sanford for the musty professor who fades out of the chronicle after the first act.

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, First Actor and Actress of the Theater Guild, will take a long vacation at the end of their current New York engagement in S. N. Behrman's "Meteor." Their desire for a period of recuperation has caused the Guild to postpone until next season its plan to stage Maxwell Anderson's play, tentatively called "Elizabeth and Essex," in which Mr. and Mrs. Lunt are to have the title rôles. If Gribble's "Elizabeth and Essex," headed toward Chicago for an opening at the Princess March 17 is a success, the title of Anderson's drama on the subject will have to be changed . . . Another bit of Guild news deals with the retirement of Frieda Inscourt from the cast of Bernard Shaw's "The Apple Cart." Violet Kemble Cooper now has her rôle in the rehearsals.

Eddie Cantor and "Whoopee" have begun the next-to-last lap of their run at the Illinois. The engagement will end Saturday night, March 1. That performance will be Mr. Cantor's last on the alive-and-kicking stage, if promises mean anything, for three years; his exclusive services are bethrothed to the talkies for that period.

"Whoopee's" successor at the Illinois will be decided by the booking offices today or tomorrow. It will probably be Mitzi in her revival of a very good operetta called "Sari."

Vaudeville at the Palace is putting its best foot forward this week. The new bill is captained by Joe Cook, the one man revue who recently was the star of "Rain or Shine." In that show he was the best laugh of the season, and audiences at the Palace are rejoicing at his appearance. Frank Gabys, another entertainer from the revues who has versatility, is second in command. He has been a mainstay of many of the Winter Garden amusements. For good measure there is Rae Samuels, who sings the ditties of the day—a chronic contributor to the variety programs.

First-nighters can divide their attention this evening between the Stratford-Upon-Avon Festival company, beginning a repertory of Shakespeare's plays at the Garrick with "Much Ado About Nothing" and "Dear Old England," opening at the Princess as the last play in the subscription season of the Dramatic league. And tomorrow night the première patrons can pick up another novelty by crossing the Monroe street bridge into Grant park, where the Goodman will reveal Philip Barry's "Holiday," staged under the direction of Hubert Osborne.

Apropos of the Stratfordians, it should be noted that tomorrow night's performance of "Richard II." will be the only one of the repertory. This drama, which contains many beautiful passages, is rarely acted on the American stage. To recall an interpretation of it in Chicago one must hark back to Sir Herbert Tree's war time engagement at the Illinois. C. C.

Y. W. C. A. Girls to Hold Good Fellowship Dinners

Y. W. C. A. girls in thirty cities will hold fellowship dinners at the same hour tomorrow evening. The Chicago Y. W. C. A. group plans to telegraph the 29 other groups the following greeting: "Bombs burst! Breezes blow! Chicago greets you. Cheerio!" Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, member of the election board, and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins, wife of the president of the University of Chicago, will be among the speakers at the local dinner, at which an attendance of 400 is expected.

Preacher Calls Churches Lax About Crimes

Resents Blaming Secular Agencies in Chicago.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Churches of the city are sliding from beneath their share of responsibility for the crime situation and are passing it on to other agencies, the Rev. Dr. John Thompson, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Chicago temple, declared last night.

Dr. Thompson said the religious forces are striving to attach all blame for present conditions to the press, city officials, state's attorney, police—in fact, every possible agency except themselves.

Dr. Thompson asserted that the church has a first responsibility in the redemption of society. He stated that it is challenged to make Chicago a "city of God," and that if there is failure to accomplish this purpose the church should assume its portion of the blame.

"If the church's main task is to redeem society," said Dr. Thompson, "the present situation is a direct challenge to the church. Of course, it is true that the state's attorney, the police and the courts are being challenged, but not one whit more than the church."

The pastor said there is a tendency among churchmen to "pass the buck" in face of the fact that the churches profess to be "the guardians of public morals and claim rights to speak on moral issues." He argued that if these prerogatives are assumed the churches should study and endeavor to correct any condition that contributes to crime. Dr. Thompson named the social and economic fields as being concerned, discussing unemployment as contributing to criminal activities.

Dr. Thompson stated that unemployment is a moral problem as well as an economic one. He declared that inasmuch as the churches assume the "cure of souls" the psychology of the criminal should be studied from the religious viewpoint as well as from the viewpoint of the crime expert, the sociologist or psychiatrist.

"The churches have pushed these maters exclusively into secular hands and thus avoid responsibility. Has religious psychology any place to occupy in these matters? If not, what good is it?" Dr. Thompson asked.

The minister stated that the most effective police force was one that policed itself and not others. He indicated that the religious forces seem more interested in policing others than themselves.

"If the Sunday school teachers, if properly trained, do their full duty to the oncoming generation, they ought to be the city's best police force by training a generation to police themselves," Dr. Thompson said.

Dr. Thompson closed by asking what had become of the church's doctrine of regeneration, which means that men may have a new start in life.

"If this doctrine could be applied by the churches it would be far more effective than legislation," he said.

Sea Scouts Compete in Winter Regatta on Ice of Lake Calumet

One hundred Chicago Sea Scouts took part yesterday in the first annual ice regatta of the Chicago Council of Sea Scouts on Lake Calumet. Skipper Johnson, sailing the iceboat Icicle, won the feature event of the day, a ten mile race for the Commander E. H. Noyes gold trophy. The Typhoon, sailed by Scout Santag, was second, and the Black Cat, manned by Scouts Mack and Metz, third.

Scouts from the ship Farragut won all three places in the skate sail race, Simpson taking first; Holbein, second; and Van Allstyne, third. The Northern Light troop duplicated the feat in the mile skating race, Shandrucker winning the event, with Ozog second and Strain third. McLean of the Northern Light finished first in the two mile race, with his shipmate, Westman, second and Kenster of the Kearsage third.

Waukegan Student Gets Ralston Medal for Bravery

The Ralston medal for heroism was given to Ivan Gould, 17 years old, of Waukegan, a high school student and a carrier of THE TRIBUNE. The presentation was made yesterday by the Rev. Gilbert Stansell at a special service at the First Methodist church of Waukegan. Gould was awarded the medal for his courage in saving the life of Leslie Thurnell, 18, after the truck in which they were riding had been wrecked in the path of an approaching railroad train.

Dance to Recall Washington as "a Gay Blade"

BY THALIA

The Tavern, rendezvous for the "interesting people" of the town, is not daunted by the seeming lag in affairs social. Its members have been apprised of a holiday dinner dance on Washington's birthday, on Saturday evening, and also of an "April Fooleries" program to take place in about 1 months. Tavern announcements make good reading, and so I quote them verbatim:

"Scrutiny of the calendar shows that the natal day of the Father of our Country, whose biographers have become so numerous and cynical, falls on a Saturday this year. That evening should be a likely spot, says the entertainment committee, for another dinner dance. Therefore, on Saturday night, Feb. 22, we will hold festival in honor of Saint George of the two cent stamp. A gay blade himself before he married the widow Custis, so the gossips whisper. Dinner service begins at half past six o'clock and dancing at nine. The party will last until the waiters, yearning for sleep begin opening windows.

"In re 'April Fooleries.' Gentlemen of the Tavern: Over the protest of the undersigned it has been decided to secure the Goodman theater for the third Monday in April and have a Tavern evening, to include, in addition to dancing and general entertainment, a few skits produced and given by the members. What we want to know is, can you act, sing, write, or dance? If you can do any of these things, are you willing gently and graciously to make a fool of yourself in company with other members of the club? (Card tricks and tumbling acts barred.) Perhaps you will be good enough to write the Tavern, care special entertainment committee, and tell us whether you are willing to participate, and how. Perhaps, on the other hand, you prefer that we should mind our own business. Please decide."

The committee is composed of Preston Boyden, chairman; Roman Bohnen, Frank Breckinridge, Ernest Byfield, Charles Collins, James Weber Linn, John W. Root, Alfred Shaw, William P. Welsh, John Wentworth, and John R. Winterbotham.

The annual children's skating carnival at the Winter club in Lake Forest, postponed because of soupy ice and warm weather last Wednesday, took place on Saturday afternoon. Scarfs and mittens for purposes of warmth didn't destroy the gala effect of the costumes. There were more than a hundred young ones of varying ages to participate in the parade, the contests and the fancy skating competitions.

Some of the skaters and their regalia included Adelaide McCreary, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCreary's little girl, in an Indian outfit; Marcia Tuttle and Mardo Pattou in Dutch costumes; Rose Chatfield-Taylor in an elaborate tinsel fantasy; Grace Shumway and Helen Dick with Valentine suits of white bedecked with hearts; five and a half year old Kent Clow Jr. as a snowman with a top hat; Nancy Buchanan, 3 years old, as a white bunny, and Genevra Mitchell, the Billy Mitchells' child, in a pretty suit of Spanish tendencies.

Mrs. Chauncey B. Blair had a few of her friends in at her apartment at 1400 Lake Shore drive on Saturday morning for a pre-view of three pastel drawings by Jean Parkes. "The Singer," "The Seer" and "The Saint" are the subjects of the drawings that are mystical in character.

There will be several dinner parties this evening preceding the Chicago Drama league tournament players' presentation of "Children of the Moon" at the Goodman theater. Tomorrow afternoon the league is to give a tea at the Blackstone for Louis Untermeyer.

This is the second year the American Friends of China have issued invitations for a tea to meet the Chinese students in Chicago on Washington's birthday. Mr. and Mrs. William E. Dunk are to be hosts at the affair at their residence at 1538 North State parkway. Last year, the tea party was at the Chauncey B. Borland apartment.

A group of early Italian engravings lent by the Potter Palmers is now on display in the print galleries of the Art Institute.

Mrs. Egbert H. Spencer of Winnetka has been appointed chairman of the Chicago committee of the building fund campaign for Kent Place school at Summit, N. J. The campaign is to raise half a million dollars for a new junior school building and a new dormitory for the boarding pupils.

New Chicago arrivals at Nassau last week included the honeymooning Paul E. Gardners, who are occupying the winter place on Hog Island owned by Mrs. Gardner, who was Mrs. Ellict C. Bacon before her recent marriage. The Roy McWilliamses of France, who are expected in Chicago next month, are at the New Colonial hotel, as are the Robert H. Gardners and the Joseph C. Beldens.

Mr. and Mrs. Pardee Erdman of Pasadena are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter on Feb. 11 at the Pasadena hospital. Mrs. Erdman was Miss Eleanor Donnelley before her marriage last December.

Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell of Hubbard Woods who returned a few days ago after a week's snowshoeing with a party of friends at the Huron Mountain club, have left for New Orleans. They plan to be in Guatemala for a fortnight and will return by way of Havana, ending their trip with a visit to the John T. McCutcheons at Treasure Island.

Mrs. David Pope of Lake Forest fell on the ice and hurt her face recently during an evidently exciting game of "crack the whip," and is now recovering.

The Howard Peabodys of Lake Forest are in Florida for a short vacation.

Pulsating Star Now Called 2,000 Billion Miles from the Earth

Berkeley, Cal., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Beta Cephei, the mysterious milky way star which expands and contracts as though it were breathing, at last has a biography, through the efforts of H. S. Mendenhall, graduate student of the University of California. He has worked at the Lick observatory on Mount Lowe.

Mendenhall's interpretations were said to lend weight to the theory that Beta Cephei is contracting and expanding once in every and four and one-half hours. This is such a terrific rate of speed from a terrestrial point of view that it appears to be moving toward and away from the earth at a velocity reaching a maximum of about nine and one-half miles per second.

Beta Cephei is a variable star in the constellation Cepheus. It is best visible in the northern sky during July or August. Its distance from the earth is estimated roughly at 2,000 billion miles and Mendenhall estimated its diameter at almost 2,000,000 miles, or more than twice that of the sun.

In addition to the apparent velocity caused by contraction and expansion of its surface five times a day, Beta Cephei seems to have another motion. This was said by Mendenhall to be a rotation aroung some other star in a period of twenty years. Completion of this orbit would require twenty times as long as the earth takes to revolve around the sun. Velocity of this rotation is something over three miles a second.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care-feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

Segovia with Guitar Leads Sunday Music

BY EDWARD MOORE.

No matter what may happen to the rest of the musical season, though unexpected cancellations may fall on the one side and unexpected disappointments on the other, at least one fine thing has occurred. Andres Segovia gave a recital at the Studebaker yesterday afternoon, and so the season cannot be a failure.

This Spanish artist with the Schubertian overtones to his face is a good bit of a genius. He would probably have been a genius, no matter what instrument he chose to take up. It happened to be the guitar. As a result it has become a medium of more marvels than any one would have supposed possible—before Mr. Segovia came along.

With him it takes on widely varied color, speed, song, rhythm, all the different enchantments that go to make up fine music. Never did any one play Granados' "Danza" with the phrases dripping off his finger tips so bewitchingly as did this astonishing person yesterday, and I make the statement with a vivid recollection of what his distinguished compatriot, Pablo Casals, used to do to the piece on the cello.

Segovia played old music for the guitar, old music written for the lute, new music written for the guitar, some of it dedicated to him, other music that started for the piano and ended for the guitar, and it was by turns plaintive, gay, lyric, and dancing, and always rippling as rhythmically as though La Argentina herself were in command. And not this season has an audience been so silent during a performance. Not a program rustled, not a whisper went out, not a cough but was temporarily cured. All this because of the gentle magic of a great artist of the guitar.

The Gordon String quartet was meanwhile displaying at Orchestra hall what fine art there may be in chamber music and doing it to a large audience. This is a first class organization, which is more than four first class players in a group. They have reached the goal of unfailing, flexible teamwork, known among our best people as ensemble, and this is what has made them an organization.

The program began with the Mozart Quartet in D and an extraordinarily fine and fluent performance thereof, then passed to a new Prelude and Waltz by Glazounow. The Prelude was a highly entertaining bit of writing, the Waltz was pleasant, if hardly up to this composer's other waltzes for orchestra. After the intermission Franck's Quartet in D was played.

The Chicago People's Symphony orchestra would also seem to have arrived at popularity, judging from attendance at the Eighth Street theater yesterday afternoon. It also seemed to be better schooled and in better playing condition than at any previous time in its history. Conductor P. Marinus Paulsen began the program with a spirited performance of Weber's "Freischuetz" overture, which had both good tone and good tempo.

There were three soloists, of whom only the first could be heard. Mae Willems, who has overcome the handicap of blindness to become an accomplished singer and pianist, sang "Elsa's Dream" from "Lohengrin" with excellent voice and to well deserved applause. Virginia Knapp, pianist, and Alice Guernsey, violinist, were also on the program.

FRANCES GETTYS IN HER CHICAGO DEBUT AT CIVIC THEATER

BY HAZEL MOORE.

Frances Gettys, soprano, made what is presumably her maiden bow to a Chicago public in a recital of songs at the Civic theater yesterday afternoon.

Miss Gettys is young and lovely, of the coloring preferred. Her choice of songs was marked by extreme good taste and judgment, excepting perhaps her opening number, Mozart's recitative and rondo, "Mia Speranza Adorata," which required rather more control of breath and tone than Miss Gettys could accomplish at the moment.

In her second group of French songs, her voice seemed to have warmed a bit to the occasion. Duparc's "Soupir" and Debussy's delightful "Chevaux de Bois" showed a nice interpretative sense and a good use of planissimo. It is unfortunate that her really good voice is to a great extent marred by an excessive vibrato.

The Chicago String quartet continued its pleasant habit of presenting chamber music as should be, in the intimate environs of the Cordon club. They were compelled yesterday to do a little quick changing, as it were, for Robert Quick, who generally functions as viola of the organization, owing to the illness of Carl Fasshauer, became the second violin pro tem, and Joseph Vieland, of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, lent his services as the viola.

This in no wise seemed to disconcert any one, and the quartet No. 12, G major, of Mozart went merrily on its way to the full approval of the assembled audience. Following their usual plan of presenting one older work and one new, the Max Reger quartet in E flat major completed the program.

Sidney Silber, pianist, and Marcel Roger de Bouzon, who classifies in another language as a "Liedersinger," engaged in joint recital yesterday at the Playhouse. They were obviously well known and admired by their numerous auditors.

Mr. Silber was heard in a group of Brahms, the Ballade (after the Scottish ballad, "Edward"), the intermezzo, op. 76, No. 3, and the lengthy scherzo, E flat minor, op. 4. These were roundly applauded for the player's good intentions as well as his accomplishment.

Mr. de Bouzon showed himself typically of the French school and tradition in his interpretation of Poldowsky's "Fantoches" and Debussy's "Mandoline."

Two Chicago Artists Honored in Show at the Art Institute

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Chicago artists have received further honors, as yet unannounced, in the current exhibitions of painting and of etching at the Art institute. Oskar Gross has been awarded the gold medal of the Chicago Painters' and Sculptors' association for his forceful piece of character drawing in the full length portrait of the "Comedian." It is a capital painting, a remarkable achievement.

In the etching exhibit under the auspices of the Chicago Society of Etchers, Beatrice Levy has been given the $50 prize awarded by the society to one of its own members each year. Her etching shows a corner of Orchestra hall with the orchestra playing on the stage and an attentive audience in the boxes and pit.

A number of etchings have been purchased for the permanent collection of the institute. To be chosen for this is generally considered an honor. This year these prints, so far, are the ones that have been selected: "Parky and Vurty, Prague," by Stanley Anderson, R. E.; "By the Bidassoa," by Gerald L. Brockhurst; "Studio Window," by Gwendolyn Cross; "Fleet Wilderness," by Thomas Handforth; "Old Mill Creek," by Allen Lewis; "Glow of the City," by Martin Lewis; "Perseus," by W. E. C. Morgan; "River Beach," by Salvatore Pinto, and "Sanitarium," by Helen Sewell.

Both these exhibitions are being continued to March 9.

City's Pupils to Compete for Cleanup Work Poster

A prize poster contest for pupils of the public elementary and high schools was announced yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce. The winning design will be used as the official poster for the city-wide cleanup campaign to be conducted this summer. Cash prizes will be awarded the winning poster and the second best, the money to go to the school attended by the designer, since the board of education prohibits pupils from accepting prizes.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Les Canadiens and the Blackhawks waded into overtime for the fourth successive time this season at the Stadium last night and for the third time in the four games the Flying Frenchmen had the punch in the pinch to win by a goal. The Red Shirts from Montreal closed their four game schedule with the Hawks by a 2 to 1 victory, but not before more than 16,000 fans had yelled themselves hoarse.

SUNNY GOTTSELIG

These fans—who occupied every seat except a few in the boxes and stood wherever there was standing room—had every reason to cheer. It wasn't Les Canadiens as a team that beat the Hawks, but Howie Morenz, center, and the lanky goalie Hainsworth. Morenz scored both of Montreal's goals, without a semblance of an assist, while Hainsworth turned back the Hawks with the most dazzling performance any goalie has turned in this year.

Hainsworth Stops Hawks.

For two periods the Hawks skated rings around their opponents, forcing Hainsworth to 35 stops in the 40 minutes. Four times in the first period and three in the second the red-shirted goalie made miracle saves of close in shots that seemed sure goals.

Then Morenz stepped into the picture to take the play away from everyone on the ice and give Chicago a demonstration why he's the idol of the French population of Montreal. Big, fast, and nasty in his use of the butt end of his stick, Morenz staged a solo in the first three minutes of the third period that gave the Frenchmen a goal lead.

For sixteen minutes after that the Hawks attacked with the fury of the condemned and eighty seconds before the game ended their spirit was revived. Ripley to Somers to Gottselig the puck went, the latter in front of the goal, and Johnny made the red light flash behind Hainsworth's goal for the first time in the evening and sent the two teams into overtime for the fourth time in four games.

Makes Winning Shot.

That's the setting Morenz likes, and half way through the overtime his red uniform took on the semblance of Mephistopheles to the Chicago fans. A brilliant rush from behind his own goal that went through the Hawks

BROOKLYN BEATS BRUINS, 33-27, IN OVERTIME GAME

Kennedy Misses Penalty Toss for Victory.

New York, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Brooklyn defeated the Chicago Bruins in an overtime American Basketball league game at Prospect hall tonight, 33 to 27. It was the fastest and roughest contest played in Brooklyn this season.

The second half ended with the teams deadlocked at 27 points after Capt. Ray Kennedy, his right hand swathed in bandages because of an injury, had missed an attempt from the foul line that would have brought victory to the Bruins had it been accurate. Kennedy played only because of necessity, both Nat Holman and Gil Ely of the Bruins going out on fouls, with Kennedy as the remaining eligible Chicago player.

Early in the extra period Al Kellett of the Bruins was also forced out on fouls and Holman re-entered the game. Holman's entrance was costly, however, for under the league rules a foul shot is the penalty against a team which finds it necessary to put a banished player back in the game. Rody Cooney scored the penalty throw, giving hi steam what proved to be the winning point. A foul by Red Conaty and baskets by Brennan and Herlihy completed the extra period scoring.

McCARTHY IS ON HIS WAY; EXPECTS CUBS TO REPEAT

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Joe McCarthy, manager of the Chicago Cubs, champions of the National league, left his home here today for Chicago, for a brief meeting with the Cub business executives and to round up his pitchers and catchers and take them to Catalina as the advance guard of the training camp. McCarthy declared he expected the Cubs to repeat last season's victory.

"We haven't lost a good man and we've signed a couple who may be more than good. Lester Bell will help us, and the rest of the team should perform up to or better than last season, with the added confidence of winners. And if Hartnett is O. K., there'll be little to it."

McCarthy said he expected greatest contention from the Cardinals, Pittsburgh, and maybe New York.

"McGraw is always dangerous, especially after a bad year," said McCarthy. "He had that last season. Look out for him now."

CHICAGO GIRL 2D IN U. S. ICE SKATING MEET

Sky Top, Pa., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Loretta Neitzel, Detroit school teacher, successfully defended her national ice skating championship today in competition against a score of the country's leading skaters. The races were held on the lower lake of the Sky Top club.

Miss Neitzel, who holds several world's records for speed skating, led the field today with 110 points, winning three of the four events. Elizabeth Dubois of Chicago, Illinois state champion, took second place with 58 points.

Anthony Albany of Havana, Cuba (center), realized the dream of all racing fans recently when he held a mutuel ticket on Miss Fountain after she came home first in a race at Oriental Park. Here's how the mutuel board at Oriental Park looked to the fans after Miss Fountain had won and the returns on her victory had been computed. [Fotograms, N. Y.]

JOHN FARRELL'S 287 WINS $3,500 PENSACOLA OPEN

Pensacola, Fla., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Playing the final round in three under par and sinking a 25 foot putt on the final green for a birdie, Johnny Farrell, Slender St. Augustine, Fla., professional, posted a 287 today to win the second annual $3,500 Greater Pensacola open golf tournament.

As he made his drive for the final hole, Farrell needed only par to tie Sarazen and a birdie to win. He was on the green in two shots in this 398 yard par four hole. With a magic touch of his putter, Farrell sank the lengthy shot on the rolling green. He equalled par on his first round, was over on both his second and third, and was three under on the final round today. His card for the match was 71—74—68.

Sarazen had finished the last round in 70, which, added to his 72 on the morning round and his 146 of the previous day, gave him the 288.

Harkins Retained as Pilot at Bloomington

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Patrick Harkins, last year's manager of the Bloomington team of the Three-Eye league, was reappointed today.

ARIE LEADS IN TRAPSHOOT WITH PERFECT SCORE

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Mark Arie of Champaign, Ill., led all other gunners with a perfect 85 today in the international flyer championship race of the 26th annual interstate trapshooting tournament here.

After the first 40 yesterday, Aire and four others were tied for the lead. Five were tied for second after today's shoot, Sam Jenny, Highland, Ill.; Fred Ludington, Wauwatosa, Wis.; Oscar Frans, St. Louis; Charley Etsen, Coffeyville, Kas., and Frank Hughes of Chicago having 83 each.

The final 15 shots, closing the tournament, will be fired tomorrow.

Horton Smith's Birdie on Last Hole Wins Match

New Orleans, La., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Horton Smith, lanky 21 year old Joplin, Mo., professional, sank a 15 foot putt on the 18th green here today for a birdie three to win one up in an exhibition match in which he was paired with Jack Redmond against Fred Lamprecht and Nelson Whitney, leading southern amateurs. Smith shot a 74, one under par.

SOX ARRIVE AT SAN ANTONIO FOR SPRING TRAINING

Donie Bush Plans to Hold Drill Today.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 16.—Donie Bush, new boss of the White Sox, arrived here tonight with part of his bunch, found more of his talent already here, and received word that a half dozen more athletes will pull in tomorrow morning before the 1930 gong rings at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Bush, though somewhat concerned about reports that the designated training field at St. Mary's university is not so swell, said that little time will be lost in getting his crew under way. He announced he would go to the premises early in the morning to inspect the grounds and ordered delivery of the trunks held up until he decides about the quality of the practice field.

May Share with Giants.

A half hour after his arrival he also arranged a conference with Dave Bancroft, acting manager of the New York Giants, with a view of determining if it will be possible to arrange a split time schedule with the New York club at the San Antonio Texas league park, now under a four year lease to the Giants for spring training purposes. There also is possibility of using a local semi-pro field, it was said.

The party which left Chicago yesterday was augmented en route by Grady Adkins and Irving Jeffries. Already here were Red Faber, entering his seventeenth year with the Sox, the first athlete to arrive; Ted Blankenship, Ted Lyons and Tommy Thomas.

Thomas, a resident of Baltimore, has been visiting Lyons for a week at the latter's home in Vinton, La., about 400 miles east of San Antonio.

While the actual training arrangements promise to be disconcerting, the athletes put an early O. K. on the housing, in one of San Antonio's best hotels. The early arrivals proclaimed the victuals the best they have had in spring training quarters in recent years.

New Yorkers Hold Out.

The New York Giants arrived in San Antonio at exactly the same time as the Sox, but at another depot. The New York party included thirty persons and five were here.

It is said the New York regular infielders all are holdouts, but will be permitted to start training pending the arrival of Manager McGraw, who has been detained because of the death of his brother at Toledo, O. Mr. McGraw is expected in town in a day or so.

Of those scheduled to arrive in the morning are Sergt. George Connally, who will vie with Ted Blankenship in the struggle to attain a glorious comeback; the McKain brothers, Harold and Harwood; Pat Caraway, Vic Fraser, and Dutch Henry.

MT. CARMEL PREP QUINTETS BEAT JOLIET TWICE

Mount Carmel heavyweights, defeated in five successive starts, invaded the De La Salle of Joliet floor yesterday for a 17 to 14 victory, their first in the south section of the Catholic league. The Mount Carmel lights continued to set the sectional pace by trimming the home ponies, 40 to 8. It was their sixth straight victory.

The heavyweight score was tied at the half, 9 all. McMahon and Henderson, each with seven points, led the attack. Brosseau scored nine baskets for the winning lights, while Scanlan and Foley contributed seven and ten points, respectively.

Out of Town Golden Glove Army Plans Its Invasion

BY FRENCH LANE.

An army of amateur boxers from the corners of the central states is ready to invade Chicago.

The fighters from 75 towns and cities in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin, making up sixteen teams will begin to advance toward the loop early next week to fight in THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournament, which opens at the Coliseum on the night of Feb. 25.

It will be a husky, well trained, and determined army which will come into town. The fact that there will be 96 fighters from Chicago awaiting the arrival of the lads from the outskirts of Chicagoland will in no way halt the march of the invaders.

All to Say It with Gloves.

If the 96 Chicago boys can say it with punches it may be a badly disorganized band of fighting troops that will retreat back into Chicagoland after the Golden Glove final battles are fought on the night of Feb. 28.

But after watching the boys from out of town fight their way to the sectional championships most any observer would have to make the prediction the boys will carry home their share of Golden Gloves after the big meet is over.

A canvass of the training camps of the 16 invading teams yesterday revealed that about 115 boys will come to Chicago in the quest of Golden Gloves. They make up truly sectional teams. For example, take the team which the Davenport Times will send to the Golden Gloves meet. One member resides in Davenport. The others hail from the adjacent territory. Here's the way the Davenport team lineup reads:

112 pound class—John Baltzer, Rock Island, Ill.
118 pounds—Billy Blunke, East Moline, Ill.
126 pound class—Rudie Bolte, Davenport.
135 pounds—Joe Steffey, Maquoketa, Ia., and Henry Rothier, East Moline, Ill.
147 pound class—Frankie Ammerman, Colona, Ill.
160 pound class—Harold Yeager, East Moline, Ill.
175 pound class—Vern Miller, Rock Island, Ill.
Heavyweight—Buzz Green, Colona, Ill.

Then size up the Vincennes, Ind., Sun team. Only three members are residents of Vincennes. Bud Carnahan, the 112 pound champion, and Harold Howard, the lightweight champ, are from Evansville. Larry O'Connell, the welter champion, and Al Crowley, the light heavyweight, are from Terre Haute. Oaktown, Ind., provided Chester Menk, hard hitting middleweight.

Few Home Boys Here.

Only three boys who are members of the Danville Commercial News team are Danvillites. They are Bob Hillingoss, flyweight, George Glenn, bantamweight, and Edwin Metz, featherweight. Champaign provided Aaron Bray, who won the lightweight title, Ed Stevens, the middleweight champ, and Jack Hamilton, who floored all his opponents in the light heavyweight class. The other members of the Danville team are Joe Steinchcomb, the heavyweight from Rantoul, and Fred Tyns, the welterweight champ from Decatur.

The Springfield State Register team will send eight great battlers into the Chicago meet, but only three Springfield boys were able to make the team. They were Tommy Dicenso, the lightweight, Joe Beja, welterweight, and Frank Stolsek, light heavyweight. Other members of the team are Johnny Emmerick, flyweight, from East St. Louis; Thornton Ford, bantamweight, from Lincoln, Ill.; Tommy Chilerio, featherweight, from Sawyersville, Ill.; James Carnahan, middleweight, from Beardstown, and Anton Boutoski, the fighting coal miner and the heavyweight, from Auburn.

The Peoria Journal-Transcript team includes boys from Peoria, Bloomington, and Washington, Ill., and the Streator Times-Press team includes chin sharpshooters from Streator, La Salle, Peru, and other cities. Practically all the Rockford, South Bend, Fort Wayne, Kokomo, Gary, Michigan City, and Benton Harbor teams are made up of home town talent. Yet one or two members of each team hails from a nearby town or village.

The complete list of sectional teams coming to Chicago for the Golden Gloves struggles follows:

Peoria Journal-Transcript	Gary Post Tribune
	Davenport Times
South Bend News-Times	Danville Commercial News
Springfield State Register	Fort Wayne Journal Gazette
Lafayette Journal-Courier	Michigan City Dispatch
Streator Times-Press	Rockford Republic
Benton Harbor News Palladium	Vincennes Sun
	Kokomo Dispatch
Oshkosh Northwestern	Kewanee Star Courier

The last of the section tournaments was held last week. The boxers are in intensive training this week. They will be ready to start swinging gloves at the first tap of the bell.

The first contest will start at 7 o'clock. Prices of admission will be fifty cents and one dollar. Bouts will be held in all classes.

WILLIAM MINSTER.

Two hundred and seventy-eight have entered the south side meet. The large field makes it imperative to begin the show promptly. Boxers must report not later than 6 o'clock to be weighed and examined. Doctors and officials will be there at 5 o'clock. Drawings will take place at 6:30. Bouts in the classes which have the largest entry will be held first, so that winners may rest before they are called to compete in the second round.

Winners of tonight's bouts will report back at the same arena tomorrow night where four boxers in each class will be determined to compete in the grand finals at the Coliseum on Feb. 25, 26, 27, and 28. Entrants who win first and second places at the Coliseum will compose the Chicago team which will meet New York at Chicago Stadium March 19.

White City Offers Best.

There were good bouts in the trials held on the west and north sides, but indications are the boxing will be more scientific and the hitting a little harder at White City.

Battlers competing at White City come from places which are known for fighting men. South Chicago, Kensington, Chicago Heights, Beverly, Roseland, Pullman, Cicero, Englewood, and Blue Island are some of the suburbs which will be represented. Others will be on hand from Milwaukee, Wis., and the smaller downstate towns.

Included in the list of entries is William Minster of the Moynihan Skating club of South Chicago. Minster won THE TRIBUNE'S fourteenth annual Silver Skates Derby at Garfield park last month. He will compete in the 147 pound division. His friends claim he can sock with his right hand and that he knows something about defense. He has been training in a South Chicago gymnasium for three weeks.

Cappel Entered as Heavy.

Walter Cappel of Milwaukee will be a contestant in the heavyweight division. Capable judges of boxing in the Cream city say Cappel has the making of a great fighter if handled properly.

Johnny Kopp, who conducts a boxing school in Roseland, has entered a strong team. Among his best fighters are James Sands in the flyweight division, Ernest Willet and Jimmy Hopkins in the featherweight, Toots Rago and Fred Rudnay in the lightweight, McClure Carson in the welterweight, Charles Novick in the middleweight, and Leo Mylinski in the light heavyweight.

Willie Buff of the South Shore A. C. is confident that his heavyweight, Grant Fortney, will be returned an easy winner in the heavyweight class. Johnny Coulon, former world's bantamweight champion, who runs a gymnasium on the south side, has nominated several fighters, while Kid Howard's Arcade gymnasium, Dave Barry's gymnasium, John O'Berta Boosters, New City A. C., St. Rita, Brookfield Boosters A. C., Beevar A. C., Polish Falcons of America and many other clubs and gymnasiums will be represented by teams and individuals.

FLORIDIANS CLOSE SHOP FOR LAST SHOT AT QUAIL

Birds Plentiful Despite Long Season.

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Punta Gorda, Fla., Feb. 16.—Nearly all the sportsmen down here closed up shop today in order to take part in the festivities which go with the closing of the quail season. It was a gala day and everybody had a great time in the pursuit of the elusive Bob White. Although Florida's quail season is a long one, so extensive is the Bob White country down here that there is no trouble in finding plenty of coveys throughout the season.

Our experience just about eight miles from town is quite typical. We turned off the Tamiami trail, rolled down a side road for a couple of miles, left this sand road, and then started through the sloughs and woods in a small car.

Surprised by Fast Work.

There we were in a section which has been hunted all season, yet the dogs struck a point 400 yards after we turned them out. It was such quick work that we thought the pointers had a "jacksnipe," because it hardly seemed possible that they had dug up a covey so close to the road.

However, it was a covey of quail. There were four birds and they flushed wild, so on we went without a regret, because no one wanted to disturb the "seedstock" of a 1931 crop of birds. Slowly working our way around ponds, crossing cabbage palm hummocks, skirting the edges of pine timber, and always looping and zigzagging through the back country behind old Rex, the 11 year old pointer which is master of quailcraft, and his son, Bozo, we located six coveys before lunch time.

Starting in again at 2 o'clock, the dogs scored the same number of coveys before we quit late in the "evenin'," as they call afternoon down here. Some of the coveys contained more than 20 birds. Some 15, others 12 birds.

Three Dogs Came to Point.

One of the prettiest points of the day came late in the afternoon on a single bird. Rex skidded and stopped with his nose not three inches from a palmetto plant. Zip! and up came Bozo on a tense point, his head swung low, not more than a foot from Rex's. Then Bingo, the puppy, galloped up. He, too, put on the brakes and pointed. There were three dogs with their heads so close that you almost could get them inside of a barrel hoop.

BRITON NEARLY REPEATS WIN OVER TILDEN

NICE, France, Feb. 16.—(AP)—A. C. Peters, eleventh ranking English tennis player, today almost repeated his recent victory over Big Bill Tilden.

They met in the semi-finals of the southern France championships here and Peters took the first two sets before Tilden got his game in working order. Then the old master romped through three straight sets for victory at scores of 4-6, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3. Peters defeated Tilden at Cannes Feb. 5, 9-7, 8-6.

In the finals Tilden will meet Lyttleton Rogers, Irish Davis cup player.

The chief prize will be the new Gold Challenge cup. Miss Glenna Collett, four times national champion, won the original trophy outright in 1928.

WHITE, PERLICK SPEED TRAINING FOR FRIDAY BOUT

Charley White and Henry Perlick will resume training today for their bout in Jack Dempsey's boxing show at the Coliseum Friday night. The fight will mark White's first appearance in a ring in six years. Perlick's twin brother, Herman, will appear on the card, also, meeting Emery Cabana in one of the three eight rounders.

Other fighters on the program will commence training drills today. The other eight round bouts will bring together Al Greenfield of the west side and Midget Mike O'Dowd of Columbus, O., in one, and Ernie Peters and Harry Fierro in the other. Jim Lundy and George Erwin will meet in a six round bout, while Joe King and Walter Madey will open the card.

M'LARNIN WORKS TODAY.

Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, and Jimmy McLarnin, each of whom holds a decision over the other, will begin training preparations this week for their third meeting in the windup of the Chicago Stadium boxing show on March 1. McLarnin will start work this afternoon at Barry's gymnasium, while Mandell will arrive tomorrow to begin drills at the Arcade gym.

Pop Foster, McLarnin's manager, declared yesterday that he had not signed for a New York title bout with Jackie Fields, welter champion. He said he was not connected with the announcement of the Madison Square Garden that McLarnin and Fields would meet in August.

BRUIN PUNCH IN SECOND PERIOD BEATS COUGARS

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The champion Boston Bruins took a National Hockey league game from the Detroit Cougars, 4 to 2, here tonight. The Bruins, with Eddie Shore playing the entire evening, went without a penalty. The Detroit team drew three penalties.

Loafing and holding to defensive play for the greater part of two periods, while the Cougars scored two goals, Boston opened up in the later part of the second period. Connie Weiland scored two of the Bruin goals, and Dit Clapper got the other pair. George Hay and Stan McCabe scored for the Cougars.

SENATORS, 2; AMERICANS, 2.

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Ottawa Senators and New York Americans fought a drawn battle in one of the thrillers of New York's National Hockey league season tonight. Each team scored two goals.

Canadiens Win from Hawks in Overtime, 2-1

like a limited train smashes a sidebar buggy, a bullet shot of the sort that has put two goalies out of the game this season, and Les Canadiens again had a goal lead on the Hawks in overtime and they kept it.

Four penalties were called, two on each team, in the first five minutes of the game and left each team two men short and perhaps took a lot of roughness out of the game later, but it didn't cut down the ugly tricks with the sticks when the referees weren't looking. Four times Hawks had the puck for a clear shot within a few feet of Montreal's goal, but Hainsworth turned them back every time.

Only two minutes and 15 seconds of the third period had passed when Morenz brought the fans up standing, some howling with anger and others applauding a brilliant individual piece of work. Both teams were a man short when Morenz took the puck in his own defense area. He literally flew down the ice, faked to the center and then winged around to his left to circle the defense, cut back and beat Gardiner with a sizzling short from the side.

Les Canadiens began to play a more defensive game, leaving one forward in mid-ice on sallies, but with two minutes to go Coach Dick Irvin sent in the Hawks' "fighting" line of Somers, Couture and Gottselig, and replaced one of the defense men with Ripley. The four forwards raced down the ice to tie the score with 80 seconds to go.

Ripley took the puck in Les Canadiens' defense area with a poke check and passed it to Art Somers at the right. Somers had to chase it to the boards but caught it and swished a backhanded pass to Gottselig in front of the net and the Hawks' prize stick handler showed it through the melee of red jerseys past the goalie. If there is such a thing as pandemonium it reigned right then.

Ripley Penalized Again.

Ripley drew his second questionable penalty from Hewitson in the first minute of the overtime and before he got back Morenz also got one. Hainsworth robbed Gottselig of a goal on a close in shot and with both teams complete again, Morenz put on another of his spectacular dashes and scored the goal that licked the Hawks.

Morenz came from behind his own goal and raced straight down center ice with a speed and drive of a charging buffalo. Desperate poke checks didn't even jolt his stick, body checks came too late; he was traveling so fast the Hawks mistimed them and he was gone before they hit the air where he had been. Blasting his way through Morenz drove to within a few feet of Gardiner and slammed his famous bullet shot into the net for the second time.

Three and a half minutes remained to play and while the Hawks refused to give up the jinx that pursued their shots through the game stayed right on the job.

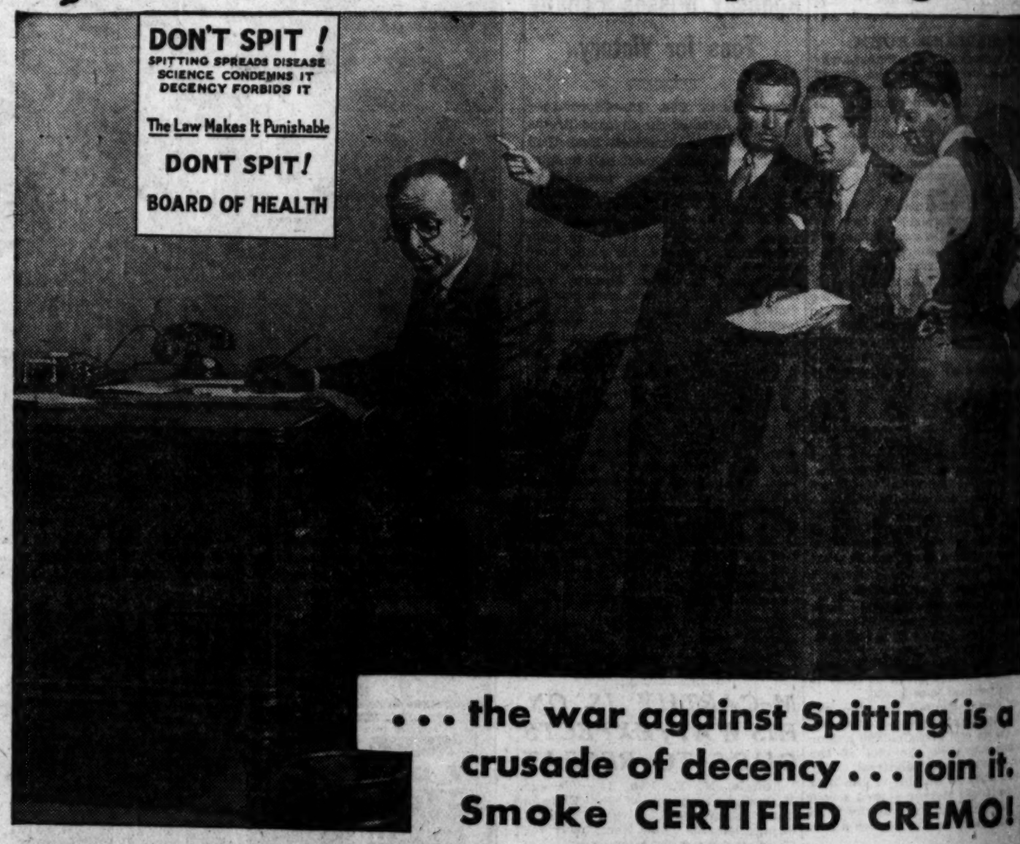
After Dinner Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar



... the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency ... join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

Of course the spitter earns your disgust ... his filthy habit is revolting. Why not feel the same way about the old-fashioned cigar ... the cigar rolled by dirty fingers and tipped with spit? Remember, more than half of all cigars made in this country are still made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods developed by the United States Government during the war. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof ... immaculate ... foil-wrapped ... Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said: "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

K. OF C. TEAMS TIE FOR 1ST PLACE IN NORTH SECTION

Ravenswood and O'Connor Quintets Lose.

Five of the nine teams in the north division of the Knights of Columbus basketball league went into a tie for first place at the Broadway armory yesterday when O'Connor and Ravenswood, the two leaders, lost to University and Marquette, respectively. The two winners moved up even with the defeated clubs, while De Soto cramped Columbus to climb into the deadlock.

B. Cyr, idle for the day, is half a game out of first place. Bandy's mid-floor shot, followed by another from under the basket, gave University its margin over O'Connor, 24 to 20.

Gopher Five Invades N. U. Court Tonight

Illinois, tied with Indiana for third place in the western conference basketball race, will play Ohio State for the second time this season tonight at Columbus, and in event of victory will take charge of third place. Indiana will be idle.

The other game tonight brings Northwestern and Minnesota together at Evanston.

Illinois defeated Ohio, 19 to 15, in its opening Big Ten game and probably will repeat tonight. Playing on their home court, the Buckeyes have a chance to upset Coach Ruby's team in view of the striking reversal Ohio showed against Purdue Saturday night.

Overwhelmed 60 to 14 at Lafayette in the season's record scoring game, the Buckeyes forced Purdue into overtime before losing 27 to 25. Stretch Murphy saved the combat for the Boilermakers when he tied the count at 22 all in the closing seconds of the regulation period.

Like Illinois, Northwestern holds one victory over its opponent tonight, having won from the Gophers at Minneapolis. But, again, the score may be reversed particularly in view of the brand of basketball the Northmen have shown since the earlier contest.

Northwestern has been unable to hit the stride that characterized its early season performance. Coach Lonborg has shuffled his lineup throughout the latter part of the race, but has not been able to hit upon a combination that is consistently effective. Bert Reil, Merrill Mundy and Bob Lockhart comprise a trio which usually can be depended upon. All three have played both guard and forward positions this year. Russ Bergherm and Rut Walter, the other members of the quintet, have been capable of only in and out ball.

STEIN ROLLS UP LEAD OF 124 IN BOWLING MATCH

Sykes Thoma Rallies After Poor Start.

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Averaging 226 pins per game for the final block of ten games here, Otto Stein Jr., St. Louis, overcame the 34 pin lead of Sykes Thoma, Peoria, and will enter the final half of the match this week-end with a lead of 124 pins.

Stein's wide-sweeping hook was working to perfection tonight and he put on one of the prettiest exhibitions of tenpins ever witnessed here. He averaged 237 pins in the last six games.

Thoma was handicapped with a sore finger, but he came back in the last five games, after getting away poorly, and averaged 226 per game.

Stein overcame Thoma's lead established during the first twenty games of the match in the fourth game Sunday night. His ball was working beautifully and he swept away everything in sight.

Stein—238, 215, 184, 203, 266, 211, 243, 258, 238, 202. Total, 2,260.

Thoma—209, 215, 186, 182, 181, 224, 204, 231, 235, 235. Total, 2,102.

Stein's total for the thirty games here aggregated 6,431 pins, for an average of 214⅓, while Thoma crippled 6,307 in his thirty for an average of 210.

The St. Louis bowler carried off the honors in the final block, winning six and losing three. One ended in a tie. Stein's 266 was high for the evening.

A resume of the score card for the final ten games shows that Stein made 69 strikes, 36 spares, jammed into seven splits, and had two errors. He mowed down four of the seven splits.

Thoma connected for 55 strikes, 45 spares, had nine splits and two errors. He made two of his splits.

LEXINGTON'S USE AS POWER PLANT COSTLY TO NAVY

U. S. Loses $436,366 in Serving Tacoma.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—Transformation of the navy's new aircraft carrier Lexington into a power plant for thirty days to produce electricity for the city of Tacoma, Wash., according to tabulations made today, turned out to be a highly expensive venture for the government.

The charge to be billed against the city of Tacoma will be $78,510, the navy department announced, while during the time the ship was at the city's disposal it cost the taxpayers of the United States in maintenance, fuel, personnel, interest and depreciation an outlay of more than a half million dollars. The sum to be paid by Tacoma, the calculations showed will amount to about 15 per cent of the cost incurred by the government.

Adams Authorized Use.

Use of the Lexington as a municipal power generator was authorized by Secretary of the Navy Adams on Dec. 13 when the Tacoma plant was out of service. At first the navy department was understood to have been reluctant to allow the ship to be so utilized, but political pressure was brought to bear by senators and representatives and it was ordered into the Tacoma port. Power lines were connected and the latter part of December and first of January its generating machinery gave the city lights and power.

The property investment in the Lexington, according to the 1928 annual report of the paymaster general of the navy, is $44,325,492. At 4 per cent, the average government rate, the interest is approximately $1,772,820 annually. As the life of a battleship is reckoned at 20 years the annual depreciation on the Lexington therefore is figured at $2,216,274.

Oil Consumption High.

As shown by the statement of Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations in connection with the 1930 navy appropriation bill, the Lexington during 1925 consumed 325,271 barrels of fuel, costing $215,778, while its crew of 1,820 officers and men received pay totaling $1,973,649.

Reducing these figures to the term of one month, the time the aircraft carrier served the city of Tacoma, the expense items were as follows:

Interest, $147,735; depreciation, $184,689; personnel, $164,470; fuel, $17,891; total cost of ship for one month, $514,875.

Flat Figure Charged.

It was stated by the navy department that in calculating the charge to Tacoma for the service no attempt was made to compute the actual cost of the ship. Instead a flat figure per kilowatt hour comparable to the commercial price for electricity was charged. A total of 4,251,160 kilowatt hours was delivered during the 30 days.

Had the city paid for the electricity at a rate commensurate with the cost of the ship it would have been out seven times the amount it actually was charged. On the contrary, its remuneration to the government was only a fraction of the expense incurred by the government, which lost in the neighborhood of $436,366.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: A Great Day Coming

Schipa Sings and Tops Radio Day for Elmer

Symphony Concert Adds to Pleasure.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The voice of Tito Schipa, Chicago Civic Opera tenor, blazed a lyric trail from New York through W-G-N, 8:15 to 9:15 last night, and the listeners enjoyed a program of beauty. He chose a mixed program of songs and arias in Italian, German and English, and he also included two likable songs of his own creation. Operatic arias such as "La Donna e Mobile," from "Rigoletto," were expected. But what was not expected was a song like Schubert's "My Peace Thou Art," which he sang in German, and very beautifully.

Kathleen Stewart, pianist, also on this concert, played the andante movement of Rubinstein's D minor concerto, and, although the solo part did not come to the fore in the usual way, it proved to be one of the most impressive of the instrumental musical moments of the evening.

Korsakow's "Scheherazade" suite was played on the Chicago Symphony orchestra concert, Frederick Stock conducting, through W-G-N, 2 to 3 o'clock, and the work occupied the greater portion of the hour. In his introductory comment, Mr. Stock called this suite "the master work of a great genius." The playing of it by the orchestra must have been enjoyed by the entire radio audience. Jacques Gordon, concert master, played the various solo parts.

The First Presbyterian choir of Freeport, Ill., from W-G-N's studio, 4:15 to 4:45, offered something akin to a choral symphonic concert. Their numbers were long ones, varied and impressive, and all of them interesting.

Garage at Old O'Banion Floral Shop Hit by Blaze

Fire broke out yesterday afternoon in a garage in the rear of Schofield's floral shop, 738 North State street, across the street from Holy Name cathedral, and the scene of the murder of Dean O'Banion. Thomas Loftus and David Cahill, employés of William H. Schofield, who has conducted the shop alone since O'Banion's death, prevented a destructive explosion when they rolled a barrel of oil and a tank of gasoline outside through the fire, both incurring burns. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

WOMEN CANCER FIGHTERS SEEK FUND OF $300,000

Under the auspices of its cancer research committee, headed by Mrs. George W. Plummer, the Chicago Woman's club yesterday announced the opening of a campaign to raise a $300,000 fund which will be used in an effort to find a cure for cancer. The fund will finance research work to be carried on under the direction of the Cancer Research institute.

Members of the board of trustees and board of directors of the institute include representatives of seven leading medical schools and organizations.

They have advised that as the first step, independent research work be financed at some of these medical colleges, which include the Northwestern university medical school, the college of medicine of the University of Illinois, the Loyola university medical school, Rush Medical college, and the John McCormick Institute for Infectious Diseases.

Members of the Woman's club are now financing the initial work. The fund to be raised, however, will be drawn from the entire state, with the approval of Gov. Emmerson, who has written the club commending the project.

NEW ENGLAND'S WORST BLIZZARD OF WINTER KILLS 8

Boston, Mass., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The worst snowstorm of the winter to visit the New England coast, followed by a mile a minute northerly gale, and near zero cold today had taken a toll of at least eight lives. The storm directly or indirectly caused minor injuries to several persons, tied up shipping, and blockaded many roads.

The Cape Cod section apparently was the worst hit, although no deaths were reported there. All the roads were piled high with snow and automobiles and even snow plows were held in the drifts. A heavy sea was reported running all along the coast.

Among those who lost their lives was Ransom S. Hooker Jr. of New York, a sophomore at Yale, grandson of the late Anson Phelps Stokes, banker and philanthropist. His automobile skidded into a tree at Simsbury, Conn., also injuring three classmates.

Intense Cold in Gotham.

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—A weekend snow storm, followed by intense cold that set a new record for the winter, today brought distress to some of New York's poor and financial relief to others.

Thousands were driven to refuge in free lodging houses, as the temperature dropped to 7 above.

To at least 8,862 of the city's unemployed however, the cold and three and a half inches of snow brought jobs. They were put to work removing snow from the streets.

HENRY LELAND, AUTO INVENTOR, 87 YEARS OLD

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The oldest living pioneer of the automobile, Henry M. Leland, who made tools for the manufacture of rifles during the civil war and produced airplane motors during the world war, observed his 87th birthday at his home here today.

It was a quiet observance spent in reminiscences with a few close friends. In unusually good health, he reiterated that he had no intention of relinquishing his interest in public affairs.

A mechanical genius, Leland introduced storage battery ignition, electric lighting, electric starting and thermostatic control of engine temperatures to the automobile industry. He organized the Cadillac Motor Car company in 1902, and years later, when he had passed his 75th birthday, founded the Lincoln Motor company, chiefly for the production of the Liberty motor. "Beautiful engines they were, too," he said. "They would have won the war if the kaiser hadn't run away so soon."

Invention of the modern hair clippers was another of Leland's achievements. It brought him an increase of 50 cents a day in his wages in a machine shop in the late '80s.

Mr. Haget Backs Gypsy's Prediction with His $917

Joseph Haget, 43 years old, 1231 Ohio street, told the police yesterday that a gypsy woman, by predictions of bank failures, had persuaded him to withdraw his $917 savings from three banks and give it to her for safekeeping. His description of the gypsy corresponded with that of Pauline Garter, well known to the police, and an order for her arrest was issued.

TELL HOW TWO HOLDING FIRMS FARED IN CRASH

Shenandoah, Blue Ridge Report.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The effect of the stock market collapse and subsequent recovery in prices on holdings of the Blue Ridge and Shenandoah corporations, two of the big investment trusts formed last summer, is shown in their annual reports issued last night.

The Blue Ridge corporation had net assets of $128,523,798 on Dec. 31, 1929, at market prices, after retiring $3,710,-000 par of its preference stock. On that date there were 1,154,101 shares of $50 par value preference stock and 1,412,694 shares of no par common stock outstanding. Assigning the preference stock its liquidating value of $55 a share, the book value of the common stock was $8.69 a share.

Rise in Values.

It is stated however, that there has been an increase in market value of the company's holdings of securities exceeding $15,000,000 since the end of 1929. This would add about $2 a share to the value of the common stock. Net income between Aug. 12 and Dec. 31 was $2,420,245. Blue Ridge preference and common shares were marketed at $51.50 and $20 a share, respectively.

The Shenandoah corporation had net assets of $98,272,123 on Dec. 31, 1929, at market prices after retiring $45,000,-000 of its preference stock. On that date it had outstanding 850,120 shares of $50 par value preference stock and 1,191,087 shares of no par common stock outstanding. Assigning the preference stock its liquidating value of $55 a share, the book value of the common stock was $8.74 a share.

It is stated, however, that there has been an increase in market value of security holdings exceeding $20,000,000 since the end of 1929. This would add about $2.40 a share to the value of the common stock. Net income between July 23 and Dec. 31 was $2,923,407. Shenandoah preference and common shares were marketed at $50 and $17.50 a share, respectively.

Chicago Ry. Equipment Co.

Generous buying of railroad equipment and supplies last year brought larger earnings to the Chicago Railway Equipment company, according to the annual report issued by President R. R. Leigh. Net earnings for 1929 were $502,061, equivalent after preferred dividends to $6.54 a share on 69,938 shares of $25 par common stock.

A dividend of 25 cents was paid on the common stock, after which undivided profits were increased by $377,-302 to a total of $1,129,273. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1929, shows current assets of $3,958,081 and current liabilities of $254,457.

New Financing Heavy Load on Bond Market

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The bond market has lost most of the impetus given it by the reduction in federal reserve discount rates. Trading last week was mixed and the trend uncertain.

Much of the irregularity, however, was due to another heavy block of new financing. Offerings totaled $150,-465,000, representing the second largest week of the year and the largest number of separate issues. Considerable attention was drawn to the Morris and Essex railroad's $25,-000,000 issue of 4½s and 5s and to Western Union's $35,000,000 loan in 5 per cent gold bonds. These, among other new issues of the week, met with lively inquiry, again illustrating the current taste for high grade bonds at attractive terms.

Opinions Vary.

Opinion is varied as to the immediate future of bond financing. Many loans are awaiting flotation, but some observers hold that they will be withheld as long as possible to give the slow moving market further opportunity to expand and improve, and to absorb any congestion which may now exist in recent issues which have not been so readily taken.

On the other hand, many dealers insist that bonds are not piling up on their shelves and that numerous new issues will soon be forthcoming. It is believed probabl that additional offerings will be fed out conservatively, bearing either attractive prices or special features, such as stock conversion privileges.

Evidence that the convertible bond has lost little of its appeal is seen in the decision of the Baltimore and Ohio to offer a large loan in this form on a rights basis and in the report that the Rock Island railroad is planning a $25,000,000 issue of the same description. It is recalled, nevertheless, that old fashioned bonds of prime investment caliber have sold well in the last few weeks. However, should a really strong bond market develop there would be room for all comers.

Continue to Attract.

Foreign obligations continue to receive attention. The French republic issues were not so active last week, which had only four and a half trading sessions because of the Lincoln's birthday interruption, but held up well. Other prominent government loans likewise met with support.

In connection with foreign bonds, the coupon to be carried by the prospective reparations issue is the subject of discussion. Many investment bankers point out that a high interest rate might have to be paid in the current market, and for this reason they are inclined to believe that the flotation will be delayed until monetary and business conditions have improved further.

Volume of trading tapered off last week and fluctuations in the high grade issues were narrow. In general, the market was colorless, with no indications of weakness and few signs of outstanding strength. Mid-month firming of money rates and the offering of the new treasury bills restricted interest in the United States governments, which eased a little.

Abuses Spring Up When Taxation Becomes Excessive

BY SCRUTATOR.

Taxation should, in general, place as little obstacle as possible to doing business profitably; nor should it work toward the depreciation of the property taxed.

In the last fifteen years there has been something like a scramble on the part of governments, national, state and local, to find new ways to get revenues. Consumption taxes have been levied on special articles, like gasoline and tobacco and automobiles, all of which now furnish for public spending sums undreamed of in older and simpler days.

To some extent these taxes have acted as a curb on the distribution of the products taxed. The tax on cigarets, for instance, is very nearly as much as the wholesale price if there were no tax. Gasoline taxes, estimated to go near the 400 million dollar mark each year, must have the effect of cutting down use of automobiles, if only slightly.

Long Standing Complaint.

There has for a long time been a complaint that the capital gains tax of 12½ per cent levied by the government is acting to prevent free sales of property. Particularly it is asserted that the present rate has hampered real estate trading. It is pointed out that only persons with taxable incomes of more than $72,000 can logically take profits in the sale of capital assets, as their other income above such figure is taxed more than 12½ per cent.

A reduction to 11 per cent would bring in persons whose normal income is $60,000 and one to 10 per cent is estimated as enough to bring in the $50,000 income, and would, moreover increase actual profits in real estate sales for the well-to-do by nearly 3 per cent.

It is possible that a freer real estate market would result in a rise in values generally, and the loss in the revenues from the cut would be made up in the bettered prices. This reasoning is as involved as it is speculative, but there seems little reason to doubt that reluctance to pay capital gains taxes prevented large sales of stocks last year and thus aided in raising stock market prices to false and fantastic heights that would not have been reached had holders of the "safety deposit box" stocks felt free to market what they owned.

There is also the estate tax, levied by the federal government and by all but seven states. It has been levied by Washington since 1916 and in the 1924 law extremely large estates had to be divided up on the basis of 60 per cent for the heirs and 40 per cent for the government. This was reduced in 1926 to a maximum of 20 per cent, with exemption raised to $100,000. Credit is also given for state inheritance taxes paid, up to 80 per cent of the federal tax.

Conflicts Numerous.

Conflicts of jurisdiction have been numerous among the states, often two trying to collect taxes on the same estate, one on the ground that the maker of the will was a resident of its territory and the other because the property to be taxed was within its borders. Some of these difficulties have been resolved by a decision made in January by the Supreme court, to the effect that only the state in which the deceased owner lived could collect on his estate.

This decision and the absorption of federal tax in the 80 per cent exemption to state taxes have acted to equalize the advantages of residence in nearly all states, according to a review published by A. G. Becker & Co. But estate taxes, national and state, may still be too large. It might be better to reduce them until it is no longer worth while for a multi-millionaire to transfer his property through gift before death; to collect 5 per cent on a great intact estate rather than 20 per cent on one already greatly shrunk to avoid the law.

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Lumber orders were about 6 per cent less and shipments were about 7 per cent less than production for the week ending Feb. 8, it was indicated in reports from 793 hardwood and soft wood mills to the National Lumber Manufacturers association.

CURB UTILITY STOCKS MAKE GOOD SHOWING IN WEEK'S TRADING

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Price movements in the curb market last week were again irregular, but bullish tendencies in certain groups, particularly the public utilities, were more pronounced than at any time since the November break. Meanwhile, the daily volume of trading was maintained above the million share level, or about double that of the preholiday markets.

Buying of the public utilities received considerable impetus from reports of new alignments, one of the most important developments along that line being the announcement that the Mellon interests of Pittsburgh through the Koppers company had acquired a large block of United States Electric Power.

Electric Bond and Share touched a new high for the year above $102 a share, or more than double the price touched in the crash last fall, but lost part of its gain on profit taking. Allied Power and Light, American Superpower, Cities Service and several others touched new high levels for the year.

MARINE TRUST CO. BUYS $50,000,000 TREASURY BILLS

New York, Feb. 16.—The Marine Trust company of Buffalo, the largest bank in the chain controlled by the Marine Midland corporation, announced today that it had purchased $50,000,-000 of the $56,108,000 non-interest-bearing United States treasury bills awarded by Secretary Mellon. Of the remaining $6,108,000 a block of $1,000,-000 went to C. F. Childs & Co., Inc., and the balance to various banks and dealers.

RALLY IN STEEL INDUSTRY ONLY DEVELOPMENT

Foreign Exchange May Go Lower.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 16.—In most of its aspects, the financial situation has changed little thus far in the new year. Except for recovery in the steel trade's activities considerably more rapid than had been expected no turn of importance has occurred in productive industry.

Attention has mostly been directed to the persistent fall in the foreign exchanges and the reduction of prices for a variety of goods. Foreign exchange is unlikely to go much lower and, on the face of things, the decline in staple prices seemed last week fairly to have run its course.

In the case of wheat, and possibly of cotton also, falling prices were arrested more or less artificially through large buying orders placed under the farm board's auspices. There would be less reason to criticize the policies of that board if it had held off from the market until the 13 to 15 per cent decline of the first five weeks of the present year had occurred.

In the Long Run.

Prices were previously sustained although weekly and monthly state-

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Reason for Popularity.

The reason for the popularity of American Can and Westinghouse Electric in the last week is the prospect of a recapitalization on favorable terms before many months have passed. A split up of Can seems logical, as this company has a surplus equal to about 100 per cent. In the case of Westinghouse, directors must first work out plans to eliminate the preferred through an offer of exchange for the common before a split up of the latter issue can take place.

Tobacco Stock Buying

In discussing the tobaccos, traders point out that fundamentals are definitely in favor of the leading manufacturers of cigarets and tobacco products, especially R. J. Reynolds, Liggett & Meyers and American Tobacco. The recent buying that has been taking place in these issues may be traced to the belief that the prospect for 1930 is for higher earnings.

Financial Position.

American Smelting's financial position has shown continued strength. Since 1930 total surplus has increased steadily, this figure reaching $36,643,-000 at the end of 1928, or almost double the amount at the end of the first mortgaged period. As of June 30 last, cash, call loans and marketable securities alone exceeded all current liabilities.

WHEAT TRADERS CAUTIOUS; NEXT STEP UNCERTAIN

Stabilization Measures Are Still Unknown.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Stabilizing efforts on the part of the farm board were effective in grain markets early in the week, but lost their influence later, the close being at around the lowest of the week with the trade uncertain as to the immediate future course of values and the next move of the new Grain Stabilization corporation, which has a loan of $50,000,000 from the farm board.

Cash wheat prices were maintained by cooperatives in all markets, yet wheat in elevators is being offered by holders at widening discounts under the May.

Similar conditions in a natural market would encourage short selling, but not knowing what the stabilization program is other than supporting cash wheat at recent levels, the disposition to work on the bear side of the market is curtailed, and there is a pronounced lack of courage apparent amongst large operators against taking a strong stand on either side until the situation is clarified.

So far as known the government will not interfere the future market. Traders may greet that it would be better for the stabilization corporation to buy 30,000,000 or 15,000,000 bu of May wheat. This they say would have more influence and probably advance prices sharply. Whether it would be possible to unload big speculative holdings on bulges and at the same time bring foreigners into North American markets as large buyers of wheat is rather doubtful, as they also have shown no disposition to take hold freely.

Canada, Argentina, and Australia are endeavoring to dispose of their wheat in foreign markets and Russia has said enough to take the edge off the European consumptive markets. It has shipped 2,000,000 bu in small lots of late, and is said to have about 15,000,000 bu to spare.

Russia a Coming Factor.

That Russia is to be more of a factor in the world's grain markets within a short time is apparent. Its unexpected entrance with offerings of small quantities of wheat the last few weeks had a depressing influence on all markets, apparently giving foreign buyers a club with which to depress prices of Canadian, Argentina, and Australian wheat and to check buying of American grain.

Russia has recently placed a large order for agricultural implements, cars, and tractors with the International Harvester company which is being executed, it is understood, as fast as possible. Some of this machinery will likely be available for use in the coming harvest in that country, and tractors can be utilized for early farm work.

From present indications, farming in Russia is to be largely by machinery which should cheapen production and within a few years that country may register the export trade and be a factor as before the war. It observes all surplus producing countries to adopt most improved farming methods to compete with foreign countries, particularly Argentina and Canada, where lower priced lands are high producers of agricultural products. It is certain that should America continue to produce liberal surpluses, some outlet must be secured that will enable farmers to sell their products at remunerative prices. How this is to be brought about is a most important problem for agricultural interests to decide.

A recent statement issued by the department of agriculture intimating the possibility of raising as much winter wheat this year as last, on an average abandonment of 10 per cent in acreage, suggested a crop of 570,-000,000 bu for the coming harvest. Although it was given out a few weeks ago, its reappearance during the last week had a bearish influence.

United States and Canada must have less spring wheat this season or Europe will have to buy heavily in the next five months to prevent liberal carryovers on July 1.

At present the grain trade is in a condition where comparatively few large operators are understood to be in the market. That speculation has increased is apparent in sales of futures in Chicago last week of 177,673,000 bu, of what, a drop of 139,185,000 bu from the previous week, and of 43,599,000 bu from last year. There were also heavy reductions in other grains which with the exception of corn, were under a year ago.

Closing trades were around the low-est of the week with net losses of ¾@1 cent on wheat, 1⅜@1⅝c on corn, ½@⅞c on oats, while rye was unchanged to 1⅛c lower than a week ago. Prices for the week follow:

Corn Traders More Bearish.

Corn specialists who for several weeks have worked to advance prices on expectations of small primary receipts and a good consumptive trade over local sellers in the last few days, being influenced by the break in wheat, and at the last by the report of a recent announcement of the department of agriculture, that enough in corn this year will be heavier than last, and that lower prices are to be looked for on the 1930 crop. Last year's corn harvest was smaller than the previous year's, yet apparently ample for requirements, and the end of this season will probably see supplies down to a minimum. As to the size of the crop and acreage, it is too early to make other than a mere guess.

The government is not interested in corn so far, but traders are influenced more or less by conditions prevalent in the wheat trade. Consumption of corn in farms and by industries is heavy, and will be reflected in the demand and supplies later in the season.

March corn closed at 86⅝c; May, 89@89⅛c, and July, 92⅜@92¾c; and September, 92⅝c. Prices follow:

Farm and industrial consumption of oats is about an average. Speculative trade is small, cash interests are buying May on breaks, and the movement from the country is sufficient to prevent heavy reduction in supplies from week to week. Fall seeded oats in Texas have been badly damaged, but a large area has been reseeded.

Values are at a level where leading speculators are not particularly interested. March closed at 44⅛c, May 45⅝@45½c, July 44⅝@44⅞c, and September 43¼c. Prices follow:

Selling of March and buying of May rye was attributed to leading holders yet open interest is above 5,000,000 bu. Spreading operations between May and July rye at 1⅛c difference, with large selling of July rye attributed to a leading speculator, were features of this grain. The market showed more stubbornness than other grains, the close being unchanged to 1⅝c lower. March showing the strength.

LARGER INTEREST IN LARD

Speculators are giving more attention to lard as it is selling below cost of production, and is passing into consumption at a good rate. Stocks are below last year, but are about an average for the last five years. Stocks at Chicago on Feb. 15 increased 6,023,000 lbs in the last two weeks, against a gain of 11,000,000 lbs for the same time last year. Present stocks of 37,000,000 lbs compare with $2,965,000 lbs last year.

Hog supplies are liberal and prices the highest of the season. In the face of this situation, however, lard closed 2½@5c lower. Consumption of meats is a good average, and stocks of clear bellies have increased but light offerings strengthened the market which closed 7⅛@ 17½c better than a week ago. Prices follow:
